BUS CRASH: None of its 21 young passengers was injured in the accident that destroyed the front end of this school bus on Tuesday morning. Dr. Marcia Bossart, right, superintendent of the Princeton Reglonat School District, was on the scene, hetplng supervise the transfer of students to a second bus.

21 Johnson Park Students Uninjured After School Bus and Car Collide

A situation with all the ingredients for a terrible accident: an icy road, a skidding car, and a school bus full of children, ended not in horror but in relief on Tuesday morning.

Twenty-one second graders from Johnson Park School stepped, unharmed, from the emergency exit of their wrecked school bus at approximately 10:50 a.m., approximately 30 minutes after it had been involved in a head-on collision with another vehicle. According to school officials, all of the students had been wearing their seat belts.

Police reports stated that the bus was headed west on Rosedale Road at 10:17 a.m. when the accident occurred. A late-model Mazda MPV was traveling east on the same road, when it struck a heavy stream of water flowing from a broken water main on Lambert Drive West. The driver started to brake, but lost control and skidded into the path of the oncoming bus.

The front left side of the bus was struck by the front left side of the Mazda, sending the bus onto the shoulder of the road. The Mazda spun across the pavement and came to rest against a snow bank on the other side of the road, facing in the direction from which it had come.

The most serious injury was suffered by the driver of the Mazda. Thirty-year-old Anna Moreno, of Alta Vista Drive in Hopewell, was still conscious as rescue workers extricated her from her car using the "jaws of life."

A request for a Medivac helicopter was cancelled, and she was transported to Princeton Medical Center, for treatment of facial injuries, by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. At 4:45 p.m. on Tuesday, according to a hospital employee, she was

Capital Budget High For School District

School Board members on Monday night heard more bad news about the state of the 1995-96 school budget when they were informed that $749,000 in capital expenditures would be needed this year.

This came on top of the news late last month that Princeton Regional would lose some half million dollars in anticipated state aid.

"This is only a bare bones budget," said Assistant Superintendent of Schools Lee Pisauro. "If things go wrong, we could easily be looking at another $500,000 in the middle of the year."

Half a million dollars of the projected capital budget would go toward replacing one boiler at Princeton High School and one in the Valley Road administration building. The projected 1996-97 capital budget includes $175,000 for replacing a second boiler at the

Township Employees to Vote On Representation by Union

Forty-five Township Public Works and clerical employoes have potitioned for an election through which they will decido whether or not they wish to be represented by tho American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), Council 73.

Currently, only the Township Police are represonted by a union, the Patrolmon's Benevolent Association (PBA) Local 130, which also represents Borough polico. Borough Public Works employoes are represented by Communications Workers of Amorica (CWA) Local 132 of AFL-CIO, but the Township has never had to deal with a union other than the PBA.

On Monday night, Township Committee approved the awarding of a contract with the law firm Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy to serve as the Township's special counsel on labor rolations matters for 1995 lor a sum not to exceed $10,000. Robert T. Clarke of the firm will represent the Township in matters involving the employees seeking to organize as well as in negotiations later in the year with the PBA.

The current two-year police contract expires at the end of 1995.

AFSCME represents white collar, non-supervisory, nonmanagerial municipal employees. According to Don Dileo, staff representative of District Council 73 who met with employees at their invitation in December, he and Township Administrator James J. Pascale and the Township labor relations counsel will meet Friday with PERC (Public Employee Relations Commissions, the entity that holds the election). The purpose will be to agree on what he calls the "bargaining unit."

The Township may feel that some of the employees who have indicated interest in joining are not eligible bocause of tho supervisory or managerial nature of their work. The purpose of the meeting will be to certify a list of eligible employoes.

Tho next step will be an election, which Mr. Pescalo says will take pleco within a month. If 51 porcent of those who voto indicate thoy wish to bolong to AFSCME Council 73, thoy will automatically be acceptod. At that point all terms and conditions of employment will be subject to nogotiation.

Township Police Tell Committtee They Are Against Consolidation

A lino of 18 uniformed Township police officers filed into the Valley Road building meoting room on Monday night to demonstrate their opposition to consolidation of Borough and Township.

Filling two rows in front and some seats in the back, they listened impassively as Township Committeo votod 3 to 0 (Phyllis Marchand and Carl Mayer were not prosent) to introduce an ordinance that would authorize placing the question of establishing a Joint Consolidation Study Commission on the ballot at the November general election. The public hearing before final adoption is on Monday, March 6.

Sgt Mark Emann, the designated spokesman for the police, spoke against consolidating the two police departments as well as the two municipalities. "For 65 years and several generations the Township has been accustomed to a certain type of service," Sgt. Emann said. "With one department, there would be fewer officers and longer response time. There would be fewer outer patrols because of the demands of

Asked how he felt about the move to organize, Mr. Pascale said, "Mixed. I believe the Township has been eminently fair with the staff. However, if they feel joining the union would be in their best interest, I have no problem with their desire to organize."

Township employees received a five percent salary increase in 1993 and '94, as opposed to the six percent increase accorded the police. "That may have been a contributing factor," Mr. Pascale said. In addition, summer hours were cut, the deduction for prescription drug reimbursement was increased as were medical visit co-payments.

Mr. Pascale said he did not think that the employees would receive substantially higher salaries and benefits through union negotiations than they would have in direct negotiations with the Township administration.

"These are difficult economic times," he said. "Employees see their salary increases declining. They see a reduction in their compensation package. I think they feel that unless they have someone representing them they won't get what they think they need."

He acknowledged that employee dissatisfaction and low morale may have played a part in the desire of some to organize. Susan Stanbury, assistant Township administrator, said she thought that many of the employees are interested in finding out "what it is all about," but won't necessarily vote to join.

Three boilers provide heat at the high school. The two scheduled for replacement date back to the building's construction in 1928.

William Karch, director of facilities for the School District, brought in a piece of metal from one of the old boilers. It had a large hole in it, and Mr. Karch said that the maintenance crews have frequently had to patch similar holes.

Seventy-five thousand dollars is allocated to replace the roof at Littlebrook School, and $25,000 to replace the gym roof at Johnson Park School. The District is currently involved in litigation to recover the costs of roof replacement.

Dr. Pisauro said that if a settlement were reached before the school budget referendum in April, the cost for roof replacement could be removed from the capital budget. But he wasn't certain this would happen.

He anticipated that the District would recover about 60 percent of the cost of roof replacement once a settlement was reached.

Asked why these relatively new roofs had to be replaced, Mr. Pisauro explained that it related to a problem with the foam portion, which shrinks in time.

Noting that both Littlebrook and Johnson Park have actively leaking roofs, Mr. Pisauro said plaintively, "I will not go through another John Witherspoon."

The John Witherspoon School library was closed much of the last school year because of a leaking roof. It was finally repaired over the summer.

Ventilation System

The proposed budget also includes an allocation of $80,000 for repair of the ventilation system in one wing of John Witherspoon and smaller expenditures for such items as replacement of the public address system ($8,000) and the addition of a small group instruction room ($12,000) at Community Park; District ashestos abatement ($15,000); and new lights and a dropped ceiling in the Riverside Library ($5,000).

Michael Littman said, "You can't save the buildings and nuke all the programs; it's not acceptable." Candace Preston responded with the assertion that "facilities that are not maintained have a demoralizing effect on the entire program."

The projected capital budget, from 1996-67 through 1999-2000, is estimated at, respectively, $752,000, 749,000, 751,000, and 751,000.

'We have seen what we think we need," said John Clearwater, chair of the School Board Finance Committee, which heard the Monday night budget report. "We may have to see what the rest of the numbers look like."

Potential Reduction in School Aid from State Is Topic A at Board Finance Meeting Monday

As the four elementary school principals Monday night explained how each would spend the approximately $80,000 budgeted for programs and supplies in 1995-96, the question of how the District will cope with a sizeable cut in State aid continually inserted itself into the discussion.

The State announced late last month that it would slap a $497,000 penalty on Princeton Regional because the District spends more than 30 percent above the State average on administrative costs.

In addition to the penalty, the State also said it would cut $55,145 for transportation of special education students transported on regular school buses rather than on smaller vehicles, and $26,850 in transportation aid. The complete hit totals $580,000.

It has long been known that some $220,000 in desegregation aid, provided last year, would not be renewed for 1995-96.

The elementary school budgets discussed at the Board Finance Committee were small because they did not include salaries. Approximately 80 percent of the school budget, which last year totaled $30 million, is spent for salaries and benefits.

TOPICS Of the Town

Superintendent of Schools Marcia Bossart said she could not discuss staffing at this time, but promised she would at the Finance Committee budget meeting scheduled for February 27.

When Community Park Principal Lois Zabriskie said that the most important thing — class size — was not being discussed, Dr. Bossart said the recent announcement by the State made it impossible to discuss this. "Obviously, we are looking at cuts," she said. Later in the evening she noted that the size of staff is what determines class size.

Dr. Bossart announced that 40 students from the Institute for Advanced Study and the Princeton Theological Seminary would be moved in September from Johnson Park to Littlebrook and Riverside. This is in response to the increased enrollment anticipated at Johnson Park as a result of the Ettl Farm and Washington Oaks developments.

"This is a relief valve for a year until we get the long-range master plan in the spring," said Dr. Bossart. "If we don't do short-term redistricting, we might be out of sync with long-range decisions."

Dr. Zabriskie said she planned to add as much as she could to the Community Park math program, and also provide some needed classroom furniture. Other money in her school budget would be used for software, the instrumental music program, and new textbooks.

She hopes to replace an overhead projector and buy new maps, globes, and bookstands. In addition, she hopes to add another grade level of computers.

Littlebrook Principal Bob Ginsberg said he was cutting $1,500 from the field trips portion of his budget in the hope that parents will step in and help fund them. The School Board recently changed its policy to allow parents to contribute to the cost of such trips.

He also cut $700 from the educational improvement item in the Littlebrook budget because he said he expects that the new assistant superintendent, Cheryl Simone, and Ferdi Serim, who is in charge of computer technology, will be able to provide educational programs to his staff.

Dr. Ginsberg also wants to buy additional computers to Goodbye Oxygenoted Gosoline?

An emergency rule has been signed by Gov. Christie Whitman shortening from seven months to four months per year the period when oxygenated gasoline can he sold. But Administration officials made clear that this is only a first step to completely ending sales of this fuel.

Sold from October to April, the gasoline is oxygenated because it contains 2.7 percent, by weight, MTBE, or methyl tertiary butyl ether.

The chemical has been blamed for causing headaches, nausea, dizziness and other ailments in some people.

New Cor Emission Bill

A new, watered-down car emissions hill heads to the Senate, where it faces an uphill hattle, according to sponsors of the legislation.

Known as the Federal Clean Air Mandate Compliance Act, the bill will require motorists to have their ears inspected once every two years. This inspection would involve an emissions test less onerous than the one the Federal Environmental Protection Agency had demanded annually, up until the Novemher election.

N.J. Jobless Rote Rises

The Stae's unemployment rate increased a full percentage point in January, to 7.2 percent. New Jersey's jobless rate outpaced that of neighboring New York and Pennsylvania, where Janaury unemployement rates of 6.0 and 5.9 percent, respectively, had changed little from Decemher.

Alerts on Sex Offenders

Under the provisions of Megan's Law, community groups such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and PTOs can register with police and prosecutors to receive notification of the release of certain sex offenders.

When a Tier Two offender — considered a moderate risk for committing additional sex offenses — is to be released, schools are automatically notified. But only registered community groups will be contacted, according to Mercer County Prosecutor Maryann Bielamowicz.

Interested groups can contact their local police department or the county prosecutor's office to obtain a registration form.

More Child Support

A new state-funded Mercer County program will help parents get larger child-support payments from their former mates. It is designed to help a parent negotiate the confusing and expensive process of getting child-support orders increased in proprotion to increased incomes of those who are required to make payments.

Under the program, the State Office of Child Support will review the support level upon request of a recipient in cases where the order is at least three years old and it has been determined that the income of the payer has risen 20 percent or more since the original order, said County Executive Robert D. Prunetti.

Riverside Principal Bill Cirullo is asking for an additional $1,500 for library books to improve his school's multicultural studies. He also wants to improve the science discovery room.

At Johnson Park, Principal John Kazmark said he also wants to add to the library's multicultural offerings. In addition, he planned to continue his purchase of the University of Chicago math materials.

The Finance Committee seemed satisfied with the principals' presentation, but all were aware that these budgets represented a very small share of the total.

For example, the 1995-96 amount allocated for programs and supplies at Littlebrook, and discussed Monday night, was $79,200. Administrative salaries, which were not discussed at this meeting, include: principal, $93,280; administrative secretary, $66,844; librarian, $66,190; and nurse, $61,012. Teachers' salaries total $621,261.

Township Backs Down On the Issue of Busing

After hearing the emotional pleas of parents concerned for the safety of children and skeptical of the savings in eliminating certain bus routes, Township Committee voted unanimously Monday night not to eliminate busing for these students.

They include some 67 private school children whose walking routes to school are deemed hazardous as well as high school students living at Princeton Community Village and in the Andrews-Foulet development off Cherry Hill Road. Earlier, Committee had ruled out eliminating busing for elementary and middle school children living at PCV and the Andrews-Foulet development.

Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer pointed out that the Board of Education is required to bus elementary and middle school children who live more than two miles from school and high school children who live 2½ miles away, so-called "remote" busing. "Courtesy" busing, which is discretionary, allows a municipality or school board to decide if routes are hazardous and then to pay for busing of children along those routes. Busing private school children also comes under the category of "courtesy" busing.

Mr. Schmierer told Committee it was within their right to eliminate or reduce courtesy busing, as long as they did so on "a rational basis" — i.e. financial considerations or the age of the students. Committee is concerned that the costs of busing have escalated from $11,000 a year to $110,000 and is anxious to cut costs wherever possible.

Mark Levin, a pediatrician with two children at Princeton Day School, said he did not think eliminating busing was rational because it would be putting children at risk. "Sacrificing the safety of children is irrational," Dr. Levin said.

those PCV parents who successfully convinced Township Committee to institute busing for their children two years ago, told Committee things had not changed in the interim. PCV parents were still concerned about "creepy" people who might accost their children in the dark patch of woods along Bunn Drive or at the bus station near McCaffrey's.

Several parents made pointed references to the money Committee was spending for a municipal building, for library studies and a new firehouse to underscore the fact that the potential savings in eliminating one or two bus routes paled in comparison. They said cuts should be made in other areas.

Inconvenience for single parents and households in which both parents worked was cited. "I'm a working mother and I depend on that bus," said one resident of Cherry Hill Road whose children attend Stuart Country Day School. "This [busing] is one area I would like help from the Township," said a father living on Harrison Street who drives his little boy to St. Paul School every day.

Parents recommended smaller vans to save costs, or tripling of routes, so that one bus would make three passes. Committeeman Stephen Frakt asked Dr. Levin whether he thought the private schools could play a role in bearing the transportation costs. Dr. Levin replied he was not the person to ask.

In seconding Committeewoman Sharon Bilanin's motion that bus routes "remain as is," Mr. Frakt said he would support it if Committee made a point of looking into some of the alternatives, including private school contribution, that had been discussed. After the vote, the audience applauded

In Princeton Borough, police reported that a theft from the Nassau Interiors store on Nassau Street last Friday resulted in a low-speed car chase and a subsequent arrest.

According to police reports, Joseph Ciccarello, 44, of 904 Melrose Avenue in Trenton, entered the store and indicated that he wanted to purchase a $1,600 mahogany dresser. The piece of furniture was loaded into his car, which was parked outside the store, and Mr. Ciccarello re-entered the store, as if to pay for the dresser.

He then left the store without paying, and drove down Nassau Street toward Route 206. Borough police followed Mr. Ciccarello's car through town, into Princeton Township, and eventually across the border into Lawrence Township before coming to a halt.

According to police, the cars never exceeded 38 miles per hour during the chase.

Mr. Ciccarello was charged with theft and eluding police. He was later released on $250 bail.

SLIPPERY SLOPE: Children and adults alike found some fun in the 16 inches of snow dumped on Princeton last weekend. On Sunday afternoon, dozens of people brought sleds, toboggans, and other slideable objects to the Springdale Golf Course, for a day of sledding in the shadow of Princeton University's Old Graduate College.

Winter's First Bona Fide Storm Hit Saturday; Princeton Digs Out From Under 16'' Snowfall

With competition from towns like Buffalo and Bangor, Princeton rarely appears on the list of the snowiest places in the eastern United States; but things changed for a little while last weekend, according to cable television's Weather Channel.

The 16 inches of snow that fell here on Friday night and Saturday morning put Princeton on top of the station's list of places hardest hit by the storm, well ahead of its northerly neighbors.

Temperatures hovered just above zero on Saturday and Sunday, but biting wind that came in violent gusts made it feel as though the temperature was well into the negatives.

By all accounts, it was lucky that such a severe storm hit on the weekend, rather than during the work week.

"We were very fortunate that it occurred on the weekend," said Borough police Captain Peter Hanley. "It really kept traffic levels down; we had only one minor accident, n fender bender on Washington Road. The biggest single problem was people parking in the streets, which interfered with the plows."

The situation in the Township was similar, according to Sergeant Mark Emann, traffic officer for the Township Police. He reported that there were five accidents over the weekend, none of which involved serious injuries.

Public Works Works Hard

"Sixteen inches in seven hours is a lot of snow," said Wayne Carr, superintendent of public works for the Borough. He reported that his crews were at work salting the roads at midnight on Friday evening, shortly after the snow began falling.

"We got a good jump on it," he said. "The salt makes the snow easier to plow, because it's melting as soon as it hits the ground."

Mr. Carr had nine people in seven trucks working on the roads from midnight to 8 a.m. on Saturday morning; another crew of nine worked the next twelve hours, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; finally, a six person crew worked from 8 p.m. Saturday to 8 a.m. the next morning.

All of the Borough roads were accessible by noon on Saturday, he said. "Our biggest problem is traffic and parking," he said. "We have to wait until the illegally parked cars are removed before we can plow the streets properly."

Township Engineer Bob Kiser had his crews on the road by 11:30 p.m. on Friday. He praised the dedication of the Township Public Works employees, two of whom came to work in spite of illness, and two of whom are new to the department.

With seven plows to cover 90 miles of Township roads, Mr. Kiser's crews worked through until 6 p.m. on Saturday, by which time all Township roads had been plowed

Walks Must Be Clear, Say Township Police

The Township Police Department issued a release on Tuesday, stating that the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks and bicycle paths is the responsibility of the occupant of the premises abutting or bordering them.

Snow must be removed and ice must be covered within 48 hours of the end of a storm.

In addition, they said, whenever a snow emergency has been declared, no vehicles may be parked on municipally-owned streets. Any vehicle that is so parked will be towed at the owner's expense; in addition, the owner will receive a summons.

at least once. They resumed work at 7 a.m. the next morning, and spent the entire day opening the roads to their full width.

They encountered some problems at the Griggs Farm complex, where a number of illegally parked cars had to be towed. According to Sergeant Emann, in the entire Township twelve cars that were in violation of emergency parking regulation were towed away.

The snow created a stir in the Emergency Room at the Princeton Medical Center. "It was pretty eventful here on Saturday," said hospital spokesperson Jane Kearney.

Ms. Kearney reported two cases in which people suffered heart-related problems as a result of shoveling snow. A third person came in with hypothermia.

In addition, she said, there was a regular progression of people with minor injuries that resulted from falls on snow and ice. She was pleased to report that there were no injuries related to automobile accidents.

Addendum: The cheerful duo pictured sledding on the front page of this issue are Randall Road residents Charles Watkins and his daughter, Kelly.

UC-San Diego Dean To Head Wilson School

Michael Rothschild, dean of social science at the University of California at San Diego, will become dean of the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University, effective July 1.

Dean Rothschild taught in Princeton's Department of Economics from 1972 to 1976. "Michael Rothschild is a distinguished economist," said Princeton President Harold T. Shapiro. "Moreover, at San Diego, he has led a multidisciplinary faculty much like that at the Woodrow Wilson School.

"He has proven himself particularly adroit at building academic departments, identifying leaders within units, working alongside chairs in recruiting strong faculty, and bringing a unified spirit to the enterprise. He played an important role in establishing interdisciplinary cognitive sciences and ethnic studies departments, as well as a school of international affairs.

"We are pleased and excited that he has agreed to assume the leadership of the Woodrow Wilson School."

A 1963 graduate of Reed College, Rothschild earned his M.A. in international relations from Yale University in 1965 and his Ph.D. in economics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1969. He was named an assistant professor of economics at Harvard, a position he held until 1973. He first held a position as a lecturer at Princeton, and was appointed an associate professor in 1974 and a full professor a year later.

From 1976 to 1984, he was a professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin at Madison. He first went to UC-San Diego in 1983 and assumed his present post in 1985.

Dean Rothschild, an economic theorist, has written on a wide range of topics, including decision-making under uncertainty, investment, taxation, finance and jury-decision processes. He is known for analyses of the workings of markets with imperfect information, such as the market for medical care. His recent work has focused on the economics of higher education.

Construction is expected to begin in about a year with a project opening for cars hy the year 2000. The projected construction cost is $200 million, which does not include the undetermined amount of money it will cost to buy property and replace wetlands.

The highway will extend from Exit 8A of the Turnpike to Route t south of Ridge Road. Princeton Regional Planning Board officials, who have long believed that Route 92 will take truck traffic off downtown Princeton streets, will meet with Department of Transportation Commissioner Frank Wilson next week to press their case for extending the highway as a two-lane arterial road at least as far as Route 27 and possibly to Route 206.

Reaction to the decision to build 92 varied depending on proximity to the preferred alignment. Plainsboro residents expressed concern at the effect the highway will have on their neighborhoods, as did some South Brunswick residents. On the other hand, Plainsboro Mayor Peter Cantu expressed relief that a decision had been made.

Michael Chunko, chairman of thc No 92 coalition of community groups opposed to the highway, said he would continue the fight in the courts if necessary. Mr. Chunko is hoping that Gov. Christie Whitman will veto the Turnpike Authority's decision. Mrs. Whitman has 10 working days after she receives the minutes from the Turnpike Authority's Board of Commissioners in which to act. She can approve or veto some or all of the board's actions.

The Authority was criticized for making its decision before it released a toll revenue study and a traffic study. The toll revenue study calls for a 75-cent toll to he levied on the 5.6 mile section of the highway between Route 130 and Route I. The mile long section between Route 130 and the Turnpike will be toll free. This section will be elevated and will pass over a 500-car park and ride lot the Authority is now building.

Opponents criticized the Authority for agreeing to construct the roadway without knowing exactly how the costs will be funded. Authority spokeswoman Lyn Fleeger said the Authority does not expect tolls to cover the full cost of a roadway. She acknowledged that the Authority has been thinking of raising tolls but said it is also looking to other sources of revenue, such as leasing property to cellular phone companies that want to build towers.

To build the highway, the Turnpike Authority will have to acquire 249 acres of land, including 27 acres of wetlands and 195 acres of farmland. Six houses, three businesses and a church will have to he moved.

Of the three different routes under consideration, the Authority chose the one that passes through the least amount of wetlands and opted to end it at Route I instead of crossing all the way to Route 27.

The traffic study indicated that Route 92 will dump some additional traffic hetween Ridge Road and Scudders Mill Road but that from Ridge Road north traffic will be lighter.

The Authority's decision was applauded hy the MSM (Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer-Regional) Council. Diane Brake, executive director, called the commissioners' decision courageours."

Meanwhile, motorists can expect a two-years worth of delays along Route 1 because of major construction projects designed to eliminate traffic signals at two key intersections.

Work is already underway leading toward the construction of the Scudders Mill Road overpass. This project is expected to he completed by February, 1996. In March, the DOT is preparing to break ground on the Alexander Road overpass in West Windsor and begin a road widening project that will add a third lane to nearly three miles of Route 1 in each direction, from the Dinky rail line to Nassau Park.

This project will not be completed until May of 1997.

GOP Candidates

Township Repuhlicans have formed a nominating committee to select two candidates for Township Committee for this fall's election.

The committee consists of former Township Committee members, Tom Poole, Dick Woodhridge, Ellen Souter and Fred Porter, along with last year's Township Committee candidate, Michael Giardino. Also on the committee are Harry Cooke, Burr Fischer, Rick Oher and Bill Noonan.

Princeton Youth Baseball Still Accepting Applicants

The Princeton Youth Baseball Association (PYBA) is still accepting registration forms for the 1995 Little League season. The forms were originally due on February 1, but PYBA will accept forms dated on or before March 15.

The PYBA is open to all Princeton-resident boys and girls aged 8 to 12 (i.e. born between August I, 1982 and July 31, 1987.)

There are three leagues: an Instructional League for eight-year-olds, a Minor League, and a Major League. League assignments for players aged 9 to 12 are based on ability.

Tryouts will be held at the Hun School on Sunday, March 19, from 12 to 2 for prospective minor leaguers and from 2 to 4 for prospective major leaguers.

Players in the Instructional League should not come to tryouts. Players who should come to tryouts include those over age eight who are new to PYBA, and those who are advancing from one league to another (Instructional to Minor, or Minor to Major.)

Players who played in the PYBA last year, and who are not advancing to a higher league, may not attend tryouts; they will remain on the same team they played for last season.

Team rosters will be filled by the end of March, and players will be notified of their team soon thereafter. The season will commence in May and conclude by the end of June.

The registration fee is $35 for the first child and $25 for each additional child. A $10 late fee is now in effect, and placement is on a space available basis.

Forms are available through the Princeton Recreation Department at 921-9480, or by calling 921-0271.

CIA Official to Speak On Ames Espionage

Frederick Hitz, inspector general for the Central Intelligence Agency, will speak on "The CIA After Ames" at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs on Thursday, February 16, at 4:30 in Bowl 2, Robertson Hall. Mr. Hitz, a member of Princeton's Class of 1961, will discuss the Ames investigation and its aftermath.

In his statement before the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the U.S. House of Representatives and the Senate's Select Committee on Intelligence in September of 1994, Mr. Hitz said, "Although the damage assessment is under way, the estimates at this time of the damage attributable to Ames are truly staggering ... We now know that he provided the Soviets with information on 36 cases in June 1985."

Andre' Aciman

Micawber Book Signing Set for Andre' Aciman

Micawber Books, 110 Nassau Street, will hold a publication party for Andre' Aciman on Wednesday, February 15, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. to celeberate the publication of his new book, Out of Egypt.

Mr. Aciman, who teaches French literature at Princeton University, has written a remarkable memoir which chronicles the exploits of a flamboyant Jewish family from its bold arrival in Egypt at the turn of the century to its defeated exodus three generations later.

Set against the backdrop of an exotic and luxurious Alexandria, he describes members of his spirited clan in witty prose. There's Uncle Vili who takes on the roles of soldier, salesman, Italian fascist, and British spy; two grandmothers, the princess and the saint, who vie for their grandson's affection; and Aunt Flora, the German refugee who warns that Jews lose everything "at least twice in their lives."

Mr. Aciman's memoir is "every bit as magical and resonant in its own way as Durrell's quartet of novels, a memoir that leaves the reader with a mesmerizing portrait of a now vanished world," wrote Michiko Kakutani of the New York Times.

Mr. Aciman, who was raised in Egypt, Italy and France, and educated at Harvard, lives in Manhattan with his wife and three children.

Genetic Origins of Cancer Topic of Talk on Campus

Dr. Arnold J. Levine will inaugurate the 1995 Evnin Lecture Series with a talk entitled, "The Genetic Origins of Cancer in Humans." The lecture, the first in a series on the "Next Big Questions in Science," will be held on Wednesday, February 15, at 7:30 in Dodds Auditorium. Dr. Levine is the Harry C. Wiess Professor in the Life Sciences and Chair of the Department of Molecular Biology at Princeton University.

Dr. Levine received his Ph.D. in microbiology in 1966 from the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, where he studied the role of adenovirus structural proteins in the cessation of host cell biosynthetic functions. He was a postdoctoral fellow at the California Institute of Technology where he studied the replication of DNA in viruses that attack bacteria.

Dr. Levine was appointed first chair of Princeton's Department of Molecular Biology. He is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and has received many honors for his work.

Dr. Arnold J. Levine

Major advances in molecular biology over the last ten years have made it possible to compare genetic information from normal and cancerous tissues. These studies have revcaled three categories of genes whose mutation leads to cancer. Inherited predispositions to cancer, e.g., the predisposition to breast cancer, have been explained by inherited mutations in these genes.

The triumphs of the field will he reviewed and the impact of this new information on the treatment and prevention of cancer will be discussed. Dr. Levine's lecturer will be addressed to a lay audience and is open to the general public.

United Way Campaign 23 Percent Short of Goal

The United Way of Greater Mercer County is in the final push for its 1994-95 campaign. During the next 30 days, an all-out effort will be made to reach the $6.35 million goal.

"We are currently 23% short of our campaign goal," said Robert C. Machin, senior vice president-human resources at Rhone-Poulenc Inc. and the '94-95 campaign chair. "The truth is that we have a long way to go and a very short time to get there. We'll need a Herculean effort by the entire United Way organization and a major uptick in support from the community to do it."

"The need for this money is real," Craig E. Lafferty, president and chief professional officer of the United Way of Greater Mercer County, said. "We set the goal based on the needs in the community. We knew it was a stretch goal compared to what the two separate local United Way campaigns raised last year."

Over the next 30 days, United Way will implement a two-part strategy to make up the shortfall, according to Mr. Machin. "First we are going back to each of our major corporate and individual supporters to encourage them to increase their contributions.

"In addition, we are going directly to the public to ask for more help. We are asking everyone to focus on the 116 programs United Way funds through its 59 health and human care agencies. These programs serve real needs and must have United Way's continued financial support to meet the demand for these services."

Programs that receive United Way funding include child care, senior services, counseling, shelter for the abused, services for the disabled, and treatment for substance abuse.

"Why are we short at this point?" Mr. Machin continued. "So many companies have downsized in the last few years and as a result, we have lost an important pool of donations from the employee campaigns. Our job is to get more people involved in this drive, as well as to ask those who can, to give a little more."

This is United Way of Greater Mercer County's first campaign as a merged organization. It was formed through the merging of the United Way-Princeton Area Communities and Delaware Valley United Way.

"As a result of the merger," said Mr. Lafferty, "we were able to reduce costs of our operations by $125,000. We have eliminated duplicate positions; developed standardized campaign materials and consolidated our operations to one location."

The United Way of Greater Mercer County will officially close its campaign on February 23. For additional information, call 896-1912.

Familyborn, The Mildred Morgan Center for Birth and Women's Health on Witherspoon Street is offering a free breastfeeding seminar on Sunday from 2 to 4.

Topics will include preparation for breastfeeding, getting started, milk production, how to avoid early problems and when to recognize the need for assistance.

GEOGRAPHY BEE WINNERS: Princeton Day School eighth grader Regan Kenyon, center, is the 1995 school champion in the National Geography Bee sponsored by the National Geographic Society. His victory makes him eligible to take a qualifying exam to participate in state semi-finals. Matt Hankin, right, also an eighth grader was first runner up, and Amit Deshpande, left, grade seven, won second runner-up.

Information on breastpumps, including what types of breastpumps are available and the pros and cons of various models will be addressed. There will also be discussion on when a breastpump may be necessary and how it can be used to overcome obstacles to breastfeeding.

It is suggested that this class be taken around six weeks before the baby's due date. Attendance by the mother's partner is encouraged. The program is conducted by Lactation Consultants/RN.

To register, call Familyborn, 683-5100.

Hotel Complex Planned In West Windsor T'ship

A 140-room hotel that would house three restaurants and a day care center is being planned, according to Roger Steinhardt, director of marketing and leasing for Carnegie Center Associates. It will be adjacent to the Princeton MarketFair shopping center.

Mr. Steinhardt said preliminary plans had been filed with West Windsor Township. "We got approvals for this, and we're modifying these original plans a little."

The complex will be built on a 13-acre parcel of land just north of MarketFair on the southbound side of Route 1. The new hotel is reported to be a Hampton Inn, but this was not confirmed by Mr. Steinhardt.

West Windsor Mayor Thomas Frascella said the site in question was always designated as a hotel site. "As long as they stay within their approvals, they're vested. Obviously, if there were variances, that would raise some issues."

Mr. Steinhardt said that Carnegie Center Associates had no firm timetable for the project.

$200,000 Challenge Grant For Eden Retreat Center

The Eden Family of Services has received a $200,000 challenge grant from The Kresge Foundation. The grant will be used toward construction and renovation of Eden's new Wawa Education and Retreat Center in Chaplin, Con.

Eden, which is based in Princeton, provides lifespan services for children and adults with autism. The organization's educational, residential, employment, outreach and support divisions serve individuals throughout New Jersey as well as nationally and internationally.

The Wawa Education and Retreat Center will provide the first permanent location for Eden's summer residential program, and offer yearround retreat opportunities for Eden's participants, families, faculty and trustees. The facility was named for Wawa, Inc., which is a major sponsor of the capital project.

In order to receive the $200,000 Kresge challenge grant, Eden must raise $497,198, the balance of its $1.5 milion campaign goal, by December 1.

"We hope community members and local businesses will be willing to help Eden meet The Kresge Foundation's challenge because they believe in Eden's lifelong commitment to children and adults with autism," said Dr. David Holmes, Eden's president and executive director. "Our mission is to help those with autism become capable, contributing members of their community, and the Education and Retreat Center will certainly help to accomplish that goal. We are deeply grateful for the Kresge Foundation's generous support of this effort."

The Wawa Education and Retreat Center is currently

Holy Cow!
Has it been that long?

February 3, 1995 marks the one year anniversary of FDA approval of the genetically engineered Bovine Growth Hormone (rBGH.) Since that time, dairy products and infant formula produced from rBGH-induced milk have been sold and consumed throughout the United States — most without any label informing consumers that the hormone has been used.

To protect state residents' freedom of choice, Vermont has passed a law requiring the labeling of dairy products from rBGH injected herds. Similar laws are pending in several other states including New Jersey.

We urge concerned consumers to write to their New Jersey Assemblyperson in support of bill A2209. This bill requires the mandatory labeling of dairy products containing milk from cows that have been injected with rBGH. It also requires farmers to notify distributors 90 days in advance before using rBGH in milk production.

If you would like to know more, we have a copy of the bill at our store as well as other information relating to the use of rBGH. Write today and demand your right to make informed choices about the foods you buy.

New Jersey Wildflowers Is Topic of Slide Talk

The second program of the Friends of Princeton Open Space Winter 1995 Tea and Talk series will be a slide-illustrated talk, titled "New Jersey: the Wild Garden State," to be given by Elizabeth Horn Sunday afternoon at 3 at Mountain Lakes house, Mountain Lakes Preserve.

Although farmland continues to disappear, New Jersey is truly a wild garden, and wildflowers are holding their own. Mrs. Horn, an accomplished photographer, will illustrate her talk with slides showing the diversity of habitat and flora in New Jersey. She is curator of biological collections at Princeton University as well as a well-known botanist and expert on local wild flowers.

Many have attended her courses and wildflower walks at the Princeton Adult School, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association or at Mountain Lakes. A talented musician performing in several groups in the community, she is also a founding member of both The Engelchor Consort and Armonia.

Tea will follow the talk, and the program is free.

Recycle Phone Books

Two drop-off points in Princeton are available for dropping off old telephone directories for recycling. They are among 14 locations in Mercer County designated for this purpose by the Mercer County Improvement Authority and Bell Atlantic.

This is the third year the two have cooperated in this effort, and County Executive Robert Prunetti reports that the arrangement has simplified the collection process, saved money, and maximized the number of books being recycled.

There will be no curbside collection of phone books, according to Mercer County Improvement Authority officials.

Princeton locations are the Dinky station, which is open 24 hours, and the Shopping Center recycling shed. Hours are Monday through Saturday 9 to 5, and Sunday 2 to 5.

Other drop-off locations include the Hopewell Township municipal building, the Lawrence Township Public Works Department on Bakers Basin Road; and the West Windsor Public Works Department on Southfield Road.

The Watershed Association is a community-supported environmental organization located on a 585-acre Nature Reserve in Hopewell Township. Operations include environmental education programs, monitoring land-use and water quality issues and promoting organic farming in New Jersey.

If you are interested in volunteering or attending an orientation, call Pat, manager of office and volunteer services at 737-3735.

In this issue, feminist academics and artists address women's "real world" problems: welfare and social policy; racism; AIDS; sexual and physical violence; reproductive rights; and the on-going struggle to tell our stories.

Critical Matrix was founded in 1983 as an interdisciplinary journal of working papers by Princeton graduate students. Since 1991, the journal has expanded its outreach to scholars and creative writers at all stages in their careers, with or without academic affiliation.

Illegal Wildlife Trade Topic of Lecture Series

A series of five public lectures titled "Adventures in the Skin Trade: The Politics and Biology of the Convention on Trade in Endangered Species" will be given at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

The series begins Wednesday, February 8, at 4:30 and continues on Tuesdays at 4:30 throughout February, as well as the first Tuesday in March. Each lecture will be broadcast into Princeton Borough and Township over C-Tec channel A11 at 8 p.m. the next day.

Guest speakers, all experts in their fields, will discuss various aspects of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES), which met in November. One hundred and seventeen countries are signatory parties of CITES, which forbids or limits trade in more than 1,500 wild plant and animal species. Like any international trade treaty, CITES is hotly contested, because of diverse views concerning national economic interests and diverging opinions about whether wildlife is better protected by legal bans or by economically rational harvesitng.

The first speaker, Marshall Jones of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, has played a leading role in U.S. government delegations to CITES since the 1970s. He will describe the political evolution of the treaty itself.

Andrew Dobson of the Department of Ecology and Evolutionary Biology, Princeton University, will present research on the skewed demography and sex ratios among poached elephant populations, and the rationale for the ivory ban.

Susan S. Lieberman will discuss her role as chief of CITES operations, which in-

Chiropractic Treatment From Dr. Jay Horowitz

"When people come here, they can be sure they'll get honest answers and an honest opinion."

Dr. Jay Horowitz, chiropractic physician opened his practice in The Village Shopper, Routes 206 and 518. He hopes that people in the area will discover the benefits of chiropractic, which as he explains, means "by hand only." Chiropractors look at the body as a whole, and we do a lot of hands-on manipulation, which we call adjustments.

"Chiropractic looks toward the nervous system as the source of disease," he continues. "The joints and bones may be out of alignment and can be pressing on the nerves. The nerves go to every organ in the body, and when we give an adjustment, we free up whatever is impinging on the nerve."

Chiropractors treat a variety of conditions, he adds, including back, head, and neck pain, as well as such problems as sciatica, scoliosis, arthritis, and sports injuries.

As Dr. Horowitz explains, "Many of these problems can be relieved when we give an adjustment that corrects the structural misalignment in the spine, which may have been causing difficulties elsewhere in the body."

Chiropractic, which has been gaining increased acceptance, will celebrate its 100th anniversary next year. Although aspects of chiropractic have been practiced through the centuries, it was formally established as a healing art by Iowan D.D. Palmer in 1895, when he performed the first modern chiropractic spinal adjustment.

Alternative Treatment

Today, there are 50,000 chiropractors and 17 chiropractic colleges in the U.S., as well as many chiropractic physicians and colleges abroad.

After earning a B.S. in kinesiology at the University of Maryland, Dr. Horowitz graduated from New York Chiropractic College where he was licensed as a chiropractic physician. He is also licensed in four states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Maryland.

He believes that there is more awareness of alternative treatments generally these days. "There is a definite mind-set among the public today. People are more willing to accept these treatments now. I think that chiropractic will become mainstream. However I hope that we don't give up our roots and philosophy to do it, and that we keep our uniqueness. I believe that there is a place for drugs, a place for surgery, and a place for chiropractic."

Dr. Horowitz emphasizes that he always refers a patient to a medical doctor if he finds a condition in need of such attention. In fact, he recalls just such a situation: "My big excitement was when I caught an embolus. I saw a patient, and her symptoms indicated there could be a problem. I referred her to a doctor, and she went into emergency surgery that day."

Relief of Pain

He adds that he always takes patients' blood pressure, vital signs, and drug and medical history during the initial visit. He also performs an orthopedic and neurological exam, which will determine whether he needs to do an X-ray.

The initial examination is usually 30 minutes. If follow-up visits are necessary, they can include adjustments, and also the use of such machines as ultra sound and interferential therapy, as well as hot packs, which help to relax the muscles.

"Actually, pain is good in the sense that it tells you something is wrong," he continues. "It's the last thing to arrive and the first to leave. I can get rid of pain for you, but the underlying condition can still be there. That's why it is often necessary to have a series of adjustments."

Doctor Horowitz also recommends exercise and vitamins for his patients, who are all ages — from 6 months up to 80 years. "It's never too early or too late," he says.

Doctor Horowitz's initial consultation with a patient is free of charge. As he says, "People can come in and tell me what they have been experiencing, and decide whether chiropractic is for them."

"The challenge now is to get known," he adds. "I'm here to stay, and I want people to know I'm available for them. What I hope is that people will consult chiropractors in the same way they do the dentist: to go regularly, even when they have no symptoms, as maintenance check-ups twice a year."

—Jean Strallon

Excerpts from an article that appeared in TOWN TOPICS' New To Us November 2, 1994.

HEALING HANDS: "Basically, chiropractic is considered conservative care — no drugs, no surgery. We use our hands to give spinal adjustments, which can help relieve pain." Doctor Horowitz gives lectures on chiropractic, and he looks forward to helping patients.

Move to Larger Quarters For Brokerage Office

Tucker Anthony Inc. has leased the former Nassau Savings building at 192 Nassau Street from Hilton Realty. The brokerage firm, a wholly-owned subsidiary of John Hancock, expects to move from 100 Nassau Street to the new location at the end of the month, according to Stephen Jusick, managing director.

Tucker Anthony has been at 100 Nassau Street for 12½ years, in space formerly held by Gallery 100, an art gallery and art supplies store. Initially the brokerage business occupied the ground floor, with the art gallery upstairs, but after Gallery 100 ceased altogether, Tucker Anthony occupied the second floor as well.

At 192 Nassau Street, it will be spread over three floors, and the amount of space it occupies will increase from around 3700 square feet it now leases to 5,000 square feet. Mr. Jusick characterized this as "a modest expansion."

A white-washed brick building that looks more like a residence than an office building, 192 Nassau has been vacant for several years. It was acquired by Hilton Realty at the end of 1993.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
By Tod Peyton
WHEN YOU HAVE ANOTHER HOME TO SELL
Timing can sometimes be difficult if you have to sell one home before you can buy another one. Most people need the equity from the sale of their first home for the down payment on the house they want to buy. If you put your present home on the market first, you may be concerned that it will sell before you find another one. However, if you find a perfect home before yours is under contract, the sellers may be reluctant to accept your offer, and you may be too nervous to sign a contract.
It is a good idea to sit down with a good Realtor to examine your options before you begin your search for a new home. It will probably be necessary to be flexible on the closing date because it is usually easier to find a home that you want to buy than to sell your present home. If you have already found the house you want, ask the mortgage lender about arranging a short-term bridge loan or other option that may be possible for you. Real estate purchases can be complicated, so good advice from a real estate professional is essential.
For dependable individual advice on buying or selling real estate, call Tod Peyton, Realtor or any Peyton Associate at 921-1550. Please feel free to stop by my office at 343 Nassau Street in Princeton.

New Jersey Directory Is Available to Seniors

The New Jersey Health Products Council is offering a revised public service pamphlet, A New Jersey Directory for Senior Citizens.

The updated edition lists more than 100 telephone numbers, including toll-free numbers, that provide a direct link for senior citizens to state, county and private agencies. These agencies offer helpful information for solving financial, legal, health and welfare problems.

Since 1979, when the NJHPC directory for senior citizens was first published, more than 500,000 copies have been distributed. The directory has large type for increased legibility.

To request a copy, write to the New Jersey Health Products Council, P.O. Box 3789, Union 07083.

Community Foundation Lists Grant Recipients

The Princeton Area Community Foundation has selected 11 agencies to receive $2,000 challenge grants, which they must match two to one with gifts from other local donors. The program was designed to expand local charitable giving and is aimed at the needs of the neediest.

The 11 recipients selected were:

• The American Red Cross, for a special program to train inner-city kids to work as lifeguards, and eventually to be able to train other guards themselves;

• Concerned Citizens of Ewing, to expand from four to six weeks a summer camp for multiply handicapped children;

• The Exchange Club of Greater Princeton, to expand its Resource Network, which provides basic furnishings to the newly relocated homeless;

• Habitat for Humanity, to support the Community Development Program at its East Trenton center to become the hub of neighborhood redevelopment by fostering cooperative relationships among local businesses, associations, churches and residents;

• Interfaith Caregivers of Greater Trenton, to expand the help and support available to the frail elderly;

• The Mercer Alliance for the Mentally Ill to help its Supported Housing/Peer Counselor Program;

• Mercer Street Friends Center, for a unique after-school cultural and recreational program for 12- to 19-year-olds;

• The Newgrange Outreach Center, to train volunteer certified teachers to help parents of learning-disabled children with their reading and learning skills;

• Route 1 Cares, to expand a direct service project addressing the health, nutrition and social needs of homeless children;

• Target Education, to support a tutoring program for "at risk" Trenton first graders during the school year and the summer; and

• Young Scholars' Institute, to assist 12 high school graduates with further educational planning.

The Princeton Area Community Foundation is a philanthropic resource built to be flexible and responsive to the needs of greater Mercer County. Comprised of a variety of funds donated by local individuals, corporations and foundations, it makes grants to charitable organizations to increase their capacity to serve the social, physical, educational, civic and cultural needs in the community.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Foundation, or in helping these organizations reach their challenge grant match is encouraged to write the Princeton Area Community Foundation at 15 Roszel Road, Princeton, N.J. 08540; or call 520-1700.

Consolidation

the Central Business District."

He said that if there was one police department working for two governing bodies, the situation would be "chaotic" and service might be lost. "We take pride in serving the Township," Sgt. Emann added, "and hope it won't be compromised." He said he had polled the officers over the weekend and that "a vast majority" were opposed to consolidation.

Committeeman Stephen Frakt asked if the police would be willing to allow the issue to be studied, and pointed out that this was all that was on the table at the moment.

Sgt. Emann replied that there had been so many studies, including studies of the new municipal building and police facility. "It's a continual study and we're held in limbo," he said.

But he added that if there was a study, the Township "should go with what they recommend."

"My dad was promised a new station when he began as a rookie officer," Sgt. Emann noted, adding that what the police officers were concerned about wasn't really about a building.

Committeewoman Sharon Bilanin, who is police commissioner, told him it was premature to assume that the police force would be cut. Sgt. Emann said that comments of Borough Council members had indicated they saw cuts in the force as a reason to merge and save money.

"Everyone of us could have tested for Princeton Borough," Sgt. Emann remarked. "Our heart is with Princeton Township. We have had brothers and brothers-in-law and fathers and sons serving in this department."

Two Philosophies

"There are two philosophies of law enforcement between Princeton Borough and Princeton Township," he added, "and we want to continue the tradition of service that we have established."

Mayor Michele Tuck said she was "very impressed" that the officers took the time to come over and present their views. "If you hear rumors, tell us. We want to keep the process open."

"The last time we actually studied this was in 1979. It failed in the Borough in 1991. I think once every 16 years is worth a study, because conditions may have changed. That's all we're asking to do is to study this thing."

———

A parallel ordinance to the one just introduced by Township Committee was expected to be on the agenda for Borough Council's meeting on Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press. The matter was discussed in a joint meeting with Borough Council on January 24, when a March 13 deadline was set for adoption of ordinances to place the question of a study commission on the ballot.

In a memo to Township Committee prepared after the joint meeting, Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer outlined the statutorial schedule for consolidation.

• If both governing bodies adopt ordinances proposing the formation of a Joint Municipal Consolidation Commission, notice is sent to the Mercer County clerk. Candidates for the commission have until October 5 to gather petitions and file them with the municipal clerk.

• November 7, 1995: Vote in both municipalities on the establishment of Consolidation Study Commission. A majority of voters in each municipality must approve the establishment of the commission, and each municipality elects five commissioners. The election is certified by the Mercer County clerk on November 30 and the Department of Community Affairs assigns a representative to the Commission.

• December 15, 1995: An organizational meeting of the Commission takes place; the Commission prepares and submits to each governing body a budget for their work.

Findings to Be Submitted

• May 1, 1996: Department of Community Affairs prepares a study of the fiscal aspects of the proposed consolidation and submits findings to the Commission.

• June 1, 1996: Consolidation Commission submits its preliminary report and recommendation to both the Township and Borough, as well as the Department of Community Affairs.

• July 1, 1996: The Township and Borough may submit their written comments concerning the preliminary report and recommendation to both the Commission and the Department of Community Affairs.

• August 1, 1996: Department of Community Affairs responds to preliminary report and recommendations and submits its evaluation statement to the Commission.

• September 1, 1996: Commission publishes and files its final report and recommendations and is discharged.

• November 5, 1996: Voters in both municipalities vote on Commission recommendations for consolidation or regionalization of specific functions and services, as well as a new form of government if consolidation is recommended.

• November 4, 1997: If consolidation is recommended, the new form of government is elected.

• January 1, 1998: New governing body takes office and consolidated government is established.

Volunteers for Helpline

Contact of Mercer County, a 24-hour telephone helpline offering free, anonymous, confidential counseling, is recruiting volunteers. In 1994, more than 120 Contact volunteers helped answer more than 13,000 phone calls. To continue this service, more volunteers are needed.

This nonprofit organization will begin a new volunteer training program on Thursday, March 9. Skilled professionals will teach new volunteers to understand and help people sort through their problems. Volunteers will learn about issues such as marriage and family conflicts, loneliness, grief, depression, suicide, substance abuse, sexuality, and domestic violence. The valuable training volunteers receive will enable them to effectively answer calls and can also be applied to their own lives.

Classes will be held on Thursdays from March 9 to May 25 at Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church, 2688 Main Street (Route 206), Lawrenceville. Volunteers may choose to take morning classes from 9 to noon or evening classes from 7:30 to 10:30.

Anyone interested in volunteering should call Contact at 896-2120 or 585-2244 for more information.

On February 15 the Legislative Committee of The Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area will sponsor the second luncheon of the year in its series of meetings with legislators and government officials. Grace Polhemus, who recently was appointed Mercer County director of economic development, will talk about her role in county government and in the community.

A light luncheon will be available at $8 per person. Call the Chamber of Commerce to register, 520-1776.

The Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council recently launched its annual appeal campaign with a goal of reaching $30,000 to support programs for girls in Mercer, Middlesex and parts of Monmouth, Union and Somerset counties.

"The annual appeal drive is the foundation of our fund development efforts," said Dianne Donnelly, executive director of the council. "There is a need to raise more funds with an increase in membership and a decrease in United Way funds."

Heading up the campaign are Annual Appeal Chair Dr. Richard Reynolds, executive vice president of the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, and Leadership Gifts Chair Carol Carroll-Coles of United Jersey Bank.

The council has recently experienced a surge in membership of nearly 600 girls and adults representing every walk of life, breaking a trend of floundering membership statistics in youth-serving agencies nationwide, said Ms. Donnelly. Today, the council serves nearly 15,000 girls and adults from 34 local towns through a variety of innovative programs, workshops and training sessions.

The Middlesex Somerset Mercer Regional Council board of directors has elected Carol Beske, president of Act Engineers and former vice chairman of MSM, as its new chairman. She succeeds the outgoing chairman, Van Zandt Williams, vice president, Princeton University and 18-year veteran of the MSM board.

Ms. Beske brings to the chairmanship her years as an MSM supporter, her expertise as the founder and principal share holder of a transportation planning and engineering firm and, as the former mayor of West Windsor, insight into local municipal issues.

In her address to the board, Ms. Beske invited MSM members and the community to take advantage of the many opportunities to become more involved in MSM activities. "We have an exciting agenda for 1995," she said, citing the inauguration of Forum 2020, a program designed to have a positive impact on the regions's land use planning efforts into the next century.

Also elected were Vice Chairman Thomas O'Neill, executive director of the Partnership for New Jersey; Treasurer Carolyn Landis, president, IHC; and Secretary Peter Buchsbaum of Greenbaum, Rowe, Smith, Ravine & Davis.

Valentine's Day Volunteers

The Junior League of Greater Princeton (JLGP) is sponsoring its first annual Valentine's Day project, "Let Your Heart Shine," which is part of its Done-in-a-Day volunteer focus. On February 14, all JLGP members are encouraged to help a local organization hy giving their time in a variety of ways.

The purpose of "Let Your Heart Shine" is to show the community that the spirit of giving hasn't ceased just because the holiday season is over. In addition, the JLGP wants to create momentum among its members to volunteer throughout the year hy initiating special Done-in-a-Day projects.

Organizations such as Alzheimer's Disease Adult Program, Big Brother/Big Sister, Princeton Nursing Home, St. Paul's Church, Red Cross and Womanspace have provided "wish lists" of volunteer opportunities. Some projects require more time than others but each one can be finished in one day. Examples include sending Valentine's Day cards to nursing home residents and/or helping them make festive placemats for their meals, and organizing a Valentine's Day party for children at Womanspace.

Persons interested in volunteering on Valentine's Day, or who would like more information, should call Erin Forrey at 771-0525.

IT'S NEW To Us

Be Fit, Trim, & Toned Exercise at Body Image

It's winter, and for many of us, it's a lot harder to find time for exercise. In spring, summer, and fall, you can hop on a bike, zip over to the tennis courts or pool, play the front nine, or just take a walk.

Now, you have to bundle up in all those clothes — coats, hats, gloves, scarves — and it's still cold!

What to do?

The answer could be a visit to Body Image: Step Aerobics/Body Toning/Yoga Studio. Located on the second floor of the Rocky Hill Firehouse on Washington Street, this studio offers a variety of exercise programs for women at all levels.

TONING TIME: "The body and mind should have a rest from stress. One of the benefits of exercise is that it helps get rid of frustrations and stress, and our programs are designed so that no one gets bored." Sandi Heluk, director of Body Image: Step Aerobics/Body Toning/Yoga Studio for women, located at the Rocky Hill Firehouse on Washington Street, adds, "We have a nice big space at the firehouse. We thank them for allowing us to have classes there. It's a good place to work out and a convenient location."

"Exercise can do so much for you," explains director Sandi Heluk. "It creates energy. You're giving your body what it needs — oxygen. You'll look and feel better. And not only does it help you physically, it can help your mental attitude, too, improving self esteem and confidence. Also, it's never too late. This is also an important way to build bone density.

"I especially enjoy working with women," she continues. "I want every woman to realize that she must take time for herself. And exercise is such an important way to do this. More women die of heart attacks than breast cancer. Our programs are designed for the busy woman, and we get a lot into it in 45 minutes or an hour."

At All Levels

Ms. Heluk, who opened Body Image three years ago, has been in the exercise business for more than 10 years. She started as a personal fitness instructor in Kendall Park, was also a consultant to the Johnson & Johnson "Live For Life" aerobics program, and was an instructor for several other corporations.

She is certified in ESA (Exex-Safety Association), ABS (Aerobic Bench Steps), the International Dance Exercise Association, as well as in CPR. The four other Body Image instructors are also certified.

Ms. Heluk takes special interest in her clients, and emphasizes that they are at all levels. "We average 15 in a class, and I am one-on-one with everybody. I teach tri-level — high energy, mid-level, and low level. I always tell my ladies that they can work at the best rate for them. If they feel tired, they can step down, have some water, and get back in when they are ready."

A variety of classes is offered. Many of them emphasize step aerobics, hand-held weights, and other studio resistance equipment, such as Xertubes and Spri bands.

All classes, except for traditional yoga, are aerobic, and geared toward getting the heart rate up to a desired level. But there are different degrees of intensity. Some are low impact, without jumping or bouncing; others concentrate on body sculpting, toning, and tightening muscles; some are less strenuous, and especially geared to beginners, who may be reluctant participants.

Need for Consistency

"We have a 45-minute class for people who think they don't like to exercise," explains Ms. Heluk. "There's no stepping, and it's a very good way to begin. In all classes, we start with a five to eight-minute warm-up, then a 20-minute aerobic section to get the heart rate up, then a 20-minute stretch and cool down.

"Depending on the class, we can do sculpting with hand-held weights and Spri resistance with leg bands, or floor work for abdominals. Also, at the end of the class, you shouldn't be worn out. You should feel like going home and doing something."

More than anything, Ms. Heluk stresses the need for consistency. It is far more important than intensity, and she believes that people must exercise at least three times a week with a 20 minute aerobic workout to get the maximum benefit.

As she explains, "At three times a week, it takes 12 weeks to become fit, but at four to six weeks, you'll begin to see improvement. You will have more energy, and the fit of your clothes will change because the museles are tighter. Some people find that PMS symptoms are lessened, and they deal with stress better. In addition, people who have knee and back problems can also experience improvement."

She adds that anyone with a medical condition must fill out a questionnaire, and have a doctor's approval for the exercise program.

In addition to the different exercise classes, Body Image also offers two types of yoga classes. "We have yoga for relaxation," says Ms. Heluk, "which includes deep breathing and yoga posture. This relieves stress and puts you in touch with your body, it gets you to listen to your body. We also offer "Yogasize", which incorporates yoga with toning and floor work."

Clients at Body Image include women of all ages — 16 to 60 plus. Initially, many come with the hope of losing weight. As Ms. Heluk says, however, "I tell them it's not what you weigh, but how you wear it! The toning and tightening of the muscles makes a big difference. And, of course, people often lose weight, because as you exercise more, not only are you burning fat, you also have less appetite."

Fun and Beneficial

The main challenge, she adds, is getting people to achieve the three months, at three times a week. "Once they see how much better they feel, they will realize the value. I admire these ladies so much. It takes a lot of effort and determination. And it's wonderful for me when someone comes up after a class, and says how much they enjoyed it."

Certainly, everyone seems to have a good time. The classes are fun, as well as beneficial, and there's a real camaraderie. "Everyone feels comfortable here," says Ms. Heluk. "This is very important. No one is ever intimidated."

Body Image charges $38 a month for unlimited classes, and there is a special Mother/Daughter membership: $38 for Mom and $20 for daughter (who must be at least 16. Those who are uncertain of time and schedule can try out a class for $5.

Special discount coupons are available in TOWN TOPICS from time to time, and gift certificates are offered.

Ms. Heluk also supplies nutrition and health tips to her clients, and continually points out that any exercise they can do is a benefit. "For example, think of the dog as a fitness professional," she laughs. "Put the leash on him and go for a walk. Walk! Park the car farther from the store, and walk. Take the stairs, not the elevator.

"And," she adds, "to any woman reading this, if it sounds interesting, I say, just try us. You won't be disappointed. What a difference it can make in your life!"

Classes are offered Monday through Saturday in the morning, afternoon, and evening. Call 908-281-9086 for schedules.

New Safety Measures For Shopping Center

To the Editor, Town Topics:

I was very distressed to read about the death of Miss Alison Frantz, resulting from an accident that occurred at the Princeton Shopping Center. The Planning Board has been very concerned about pedestrian and bike safety for some time. In their most recent application, which was approved in early January, the Shopping Center responded to those concerns. A master plan of three phases was presented, covering retail space changes and additions, circulation movements, additional landscaping and safety enhancements. The following bike and pedestrian safety features were approved:

1. A bike path would be created at the eastern edge of the Shopping Center, between Harrison Street and Grover Park.

2. Sidewalks would be installed along the Valley Road entrance along the loop road between the bus stop and the sidewalk in front of McCaffrey's.

3. The loop road would be moved to the outside of the parking stalls for McCaffrey's, so that shoppers do not have to cross the loop road to enter McCaffrey's.

4. Three major pedestrian crossings have been designated for the Harrison Street side loop road. These crossings would be clearly marked and different surface material would be used for crossing.

While the Board was pleased about the additional safety measures, it remained concerned about whether or not additional steps should be taken. In addition, the Board was not satisfied with the proposed crossing from Grover Park to the Shopping Center. A condition of approval was the formation of a sub-committee of the Board to review these crossings and make formal recommendations to the full Board. In particular, the sub-committee was to meet with the Recreation Department to devise ways to funnel pedestrian traffic from Grover Park into 2 or 3 pedestrian crossings.

The Planning Board will meet with neighbors and interested citizens on these recommendations. While nothing will ever be 100% accident proof, we try to do our very best and we will welcome further public suggestions.

Forget Consolidation, Let's Work For a More Livable Princeton

To the Editor, Town Topics:

It must be the warm winter that has precipitated the early emergence of Princeton's own Loony Tunes. Out they crawl, waving their tattered anti-consolidation ensigns, their latest arguments ranging from the merely specious to the downright ludicrous.

In any case, it should be evident by now that the Borough residents will never accept a consolidated Princeton, so let us look for other solutions to bring about a more livable Princeton.

One way to ease the tax burden on Township residents, and improve the quality of life for all Princetonians? Have the Borough hire the Township to repair their streets for them! I offer in evidence our version of the Berlin Wall and Gaza Strip rolled into one — the Harrison-Franklin town line. The Township side, dear friends, is that smooth, well-repaired four-lane job, rolling north; the Borough owns the perilous mine field between Franklin and Hamilton.

If memory serves, it took the Borough about fifteen years to repair the ghastly mess that was Harrison between Hamilton and Nassau. So, for the sale of all Princetonians — be they Chevys or Porsches — let's assign all street repair to the Township government. I'm sure if we all think long and hard, we can find a quid pro quo for the Borough government... handling all municipal business that requires whining and stalling comes immediately to mind...

Goal for Schools: Equity, Excellence and Economy

To the Editor, Town Topics:

School elections, on April 18 this year, give Princeton voters the chance to choose three Board of Education members to represent them. As a candidate for the single Borough seat, I think it is an important part of the democratic process to share my beliefs, and my record, on school issues.

I hope that some of the people who have been featured in the papers as angry critics of our current Board will also offer their services as board members.

It would benefit us all to have a public debate of the real issues involved, and a chance for the community to vote once again on those issues. I hope all involved work hard to express their own ideas clearly, instead of attacking ideas they think were "implied" by others.

I have seen my role on Princeton's Board for the past two years as trying to represent the community's need for excellence, equity, and economy in our schools.

Given the recent cut in our state funding, I know that economy is on people's minds. Since I've been on the Board, I've worked to control district costs and to supplement local tax dollars with outside funding. We need to do more.

I see excellence and equity as twin goals, or perhaps as two ways of describing a single goal: schools that help all children achieve at their highest potential. If our schools fail at equity, giving some children a fine education but letting others coast slowly down toward failure, then we fall short of the excellence a democratic and diverse society must demand.

If our schools declare "excellence" an elitist code word and set standards of achievement very low, the result is less equity, not more. Any child whose parent cannot fill

Consolidation Study Supported by League

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Consolidation is a familiar theme to members of the Princeton Area League of Women Voters. Our organization has a long-standing position — since 1952 — that supports the consolidation of Princeton Borough and Princeton Township.

Today, however, the League readily admits that changing circumstances in both municipalities warrant additional study by the voters. It is in the spirit of encouraging an active, informed citizenry that the League, in 1995, supports the current efforts by both governing bodies to pursue the study of consolidation.

Providing the means for citizens to learn about issues, to separate the rhetoric from the facts, to reach a decision after considering a wide range of views — this is a goal of the League, whether through candidate forums, Voters Guides or town forums.

In 1989 and 1990, the Princeton Area League supported town forums in the Princetons on funding issues in general and on consolidation in particular. Continuing this tradition of fostering community discussion, the League now stands ready to continue this dialogue regarding consolidation.

Township Facility Design Is an Aesthetic Disaster

To the Editor, Town Topics:

This is an open letter to Mayor Michelle Tuck and the members of the Princeton Township Committee.

The proposed new $8.5 million Princeton Township municipal building — as illustrated by the sketches provided by the architect hired to design this facility — is an aesthetic disaster.

It has no relationship to the history and ambience of our town. It projects an image of a minimum-security prison and looks as if it was designed by a standardized computer clip-art program.

I would encourage the public to carefully examine the nature of the proposed municipal building, not only as to its aesthetics and design but also as to the total implications of this huge expenditure (and the tax burden it represents).

Do we really need to spend such large sums of money to solve some of the problems with the police station and the present Valley Road School Building?

The public has repeatedly appealed to the Mayor and other Township Committee members for more time to weigh alternatives to a new municipal facility. Former Mayor Marchand and most members of the Committee used the applied-for Economic Development Authority (EDA) loan (which was problematical even at that time) as a lever to influence public opinion and to push through the decision to construct a

People in Princeton Do Care

To the Editor, Town Topics:

People in Princeton do care. Our family learned that several weeks ago when my husband, an Alzheimers patient, wandered away from home.

It was on a cold wet Thursday evening. In spite of the weather and evening plans they might have had, more than 70 volunteers were willing to spend their time looking for a person not known to them.

The Princeton Township Police could not have performed more effectively. They responded immediately to our call for help, recruited and coordinated the volunteer efforts from organizations within and outside the Township.

They kept us informed of their actions through the five long search hours and gave us hope that our husband and father would be found alive. And he was. To Police Chief Anthony Gaylord, Lt. Mario Musso, Lt. Peter Savalli, Sgt. Buchanan and others of the Force we owe our deep thanks.

Volunteers from eight other organizations participated in the search and support efforts — the Princeton Fire Departments under Chief Robert Toole, the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad and its First Aid Ladies Auxiliary under Michael Bonotto, the Lawrenceville and Kingston Fire Departments, the Palisades Search and Dog Association under Tom Pampalone's direction, the West Jersey Search and Rescue K-9 unit, and the South Brunswick Police Department K-9 unit.

Last week Lt. Mario Musso of the Township Police Department paid tribute to the overwhelming response and help given by individual volunteers from these organizations. We and our friends want to reinforce that tribute. We are deeply grateful for the efforts given by these volunteers with the Township Police, and vouch that we in Princeton are most fortunate to have such a wonderful network of support in times of emergency.

brand new building.

The Township Committee and Mayor Tuck should abort the proposed plans for a new municipal building and reconsider the entire situation in light of the fact that Mayor Tuck, during her swearing-in ceremony speech on January 1, courageously and wisely opened up the issue of consolidation with the Borough of Princeton.

This action should be taken by the Township Committee in light of the facts that:

- The $1.8 million EDA loan (according to the press) has been canceled;
- Requirements mandated by the Americans with Disabilities Act may be radically changed by the Republicans now in charge in Washington;
- That the value and equity that are represented in the existing police station were not included in the proposed building cost;
- That the total cost of the demolition of the existing police station was not included in the cost of the new building;
- That with minimal renovation the police station could be used by Corner House or be utilized as a young people's center;
- That the public made clear at Township Committee meetings that they wanted the Committee to review alternative approaches to the rehabilitation of the Valley Road School building;
- That the public requested that a Citizens Review Committee be established to make recommendations to the Mayor and the Township Committee regarding the issues indicated above.

Mayor Tuck brought up the issue of consolidation — and if it takes place — the new municipal building will be obsolete. In the meantime let us make do with what we have, with necessary minimal renovations to our existing facilities at this time.

Mayor Tuck, be bold! Set new leadership standards now and for future Township mayors and Township Committees — standards which will seriously respond to and resonate with the public's and taxpayers' concerns and which will encourage more active public participation in the running of our local government.

It is inexcusable that individual citizens are forced to resort to hire legal counsel in order for them to protect their neighborhoods from expansive corporate development (such as the proposed expansion of the parking garage at the Princeton Hospital) and in the Princeton Shopping Center region.

Where is our public advocate to assist us when confronted by the high priced lawyers hired by the corporations that ultimately, for the most part, always get what they want?

Can we count upon you, Mayor Tuck, to bring about the changes in the running of our local government which reflect fairness and democracy in the real sense of these words?

Too Many Housing & Office Developments Created the Mess in the Route 206 Corridor

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reply to residents of State Road concerning the 18-wheelers [TOWN TOPICS, February 1], I have to say I feel for you, but you're about 10 years and many new housing developments too late. There's no place to consider that bypass until you get to Belle Mead. Route 206, whether it be known as Stockton Street, Bayard Lane or whatever, is still a state road and I don't think you can limit the weight.

Too many businesses on 206 rely on 14- or 18-wheelers for their deliveries, and also the posted speed limit is 30 mph on Stockton and Bayard to 45 mph up to Route 518. The vibrating road noise is probably due to the poor road surface from Montgomery Township almost into Lawrenceville.

I suggest that you and your committee find out when the state intends to resurface that portion of 206 and hope they make it strong enough for heavy travel.

Not to be a wise guy, but I think that Mr. Jensen should get in his car and ride around Princeton and on 206 to Somerville, and I think he'll agree the only area that you can do the speed limit plus is through Montgomery from Orchard road to the traffic light just before the Belle Mead Chrysler dealer. The rest of the time you're lucky if you can do the limit because of traffic and poor roads (mainly in Princeton area).

The completion of a couple of Interstates — I-295 and I-287 — makes 206 the bypass, the reason being that if you take I-95, which was never completed up to New York, you have to use the New Jersey Turnpike. That's about a $20 toll for 18 wheels. So they completed I-287 as of November '93. This is where Route 206 is used as a bypass. It's the most direct route to the New York Thruway to get to upstate New York or beyond or over to I-95 New York and so on.

So the 18-wheelers come off 95/295 at 206 Lawrenceville and pick up I-287 at Somerville to go north. This has been in the plan for a long time. Blame the DOT, not the 18-wheelers. It took almost 20 years to complete the stretch of 287 from Boonton, N.J. to New York and look how long for 295 to open. The only reason 295 opened when it did was because Gov. Whitman told the DOT to "open it or else."

If I sound like a truck driver, I'm not now but I used to be. I saw this havoc coming many years ago but gave it up for a better job.

I like to think of it as the Route 206 corridor because the townships of Princeton, Montgomery, and Hillsboro created this mess back in the '80s and still today by putting up all the new land developments, the office complexes and all those shopping centers and, along with all this, more traffic lights.

3) In September, 1995, we will have one child each at Princeton High School, John Witherspoon Middle School, and Community Park Elementary School.

4) For whatever reason, controversial issues facing our schools have sown discord which now hampers potential remedies. While both the issues and the discord must he addressed, we cannot lose sight of our mutual goal: a strong, positive educational experience for the children in our school system.

5) I am not an education professional and do not bring to the Board an agenda of specific programs to implement or delete.

6) As a Leigh Avenue resident, my candidacy promotes greater diversity within the Board and gives voice to a neighborhood traditionally not represented

7) As the owner/operator of an independent commercial photography business, I am sensitive to the paramount issue of quality in any product — as well as the importance of delivering that quality in a cost effective manner.

In declaring my candidacy I reaffirm a commitment to my children's education. In running for School Board I propose extending that commitment to include all children in our school district. Your vote for me in the April election represents a gesture that you, too, support teamwork as we move forward together.

Study of Consolidation Would Help Community

To the Editor, Town Topics:

Consolidation is a timely issue for Princeton Borough residents. It's in our enlightened self-interest to keep an open mind and support the creation of a consolidation study commission.

Increases in the Borough's municipal purpose property tax will likely substantially exceed the rate of inflation during the foreseeable future. The reasons are complex and beyond the scope of this letter, hut it is widely and reasonably believed that the increases cannot he avoided in the current fiscal climate except by major eutbacks in municipal services.

Therefore, the prospect of a Princeton municipal consolidation study commission should he welcomed hy those interested in the effective delivery of municipal services at reduced tax cost.

A carefully designed study, with voter approval of the study recommendations, insures maximum local political control over the process.

A study hy unpaid, popularly-elected citizens assisted by professionals would help the community address a variety of prohlems the two municipal governments now face, whatever the outcome of a consolidation effort.

Those problems include: (1) massive capital spending required to huild or renovate municipal huildings and (2) paralyzing conflicts over the split in operating costs of such joint agencies as the puhlic library and fire department.

Of special note: the consolidation study panel could make recommendations not merely regarding consolidation of the two municipal corporations hut the consolidation of particular municipal services while the municipal governments remain separate.

For example, the panel could recommend merely the consolidation of the two police departments: one police building, one communications staff, one command structure. On its face, consolidation of police services alone would appear to result in substantial savings to both Borough and Township taxpayers.

Until a careful study is completed, it would be premature to say whether we should support the consolidation of particular services, the consolidation of the municipal corporations in their entirety, or no consolidation at all.

But at present Borough residents who desire to protect the vitality of their community over the long run might keep an open mind and lend their voices in support of the creation of a consolidation study commission. Surely, there is no harm, just sound reason, in seeking information.

Indeed, in view of the property tax climate locally and recent developments in Washington and Trenton, our present Princeton municipal governments will have no choice but to substantially alter the way they now do business if we taxpayers are to avoid repeated steep climbs in our municipal purpose property tax rates in the years ahead.

Better to meet the demands of the new fiscal and political climate with sound information than to ignore those demands — and pay, pay, and pay the consequences!

PTO Council Discusses "Administrative Bloat"

To the Editor; Town Topics:

We of the Princeton Regional Schools PTO Council wish to communicate the facts surrounding penalties recently levied on Princeton schools for "administrative hloat" and to encourage citizens to join us in demanding that our legislators do not support these proposed penalties.

First we must define our terms. In the state report card on schools issued last year, administrative costs were defined as money spent on the school board, offices of the superintendent, business administrator, principals, legal fees, insurance, employee benefits, and interest on loans. The interim superintendent, business administrator and school board crafted a hudget for this school year of which four percent of the total was spent in these areas. The budget was examined and certified hy the state and passed by the citizens of Princeton. Incidentally, four percent for administrative costs is right on the average spent statewide and less than most similar socio-economic districts.

In January 1995, the state hrought forth a new definition of administrative costs — now called non-instructional costs. This new definition includes not only the above listed expenses hut also nurses, lihrarians, guidance staff, child study team staff, the supplies for all the above including library books, audio-visual equipment and computers. Using this new definition, our previously approved budget was reviewed and found guilty of "administrative bloat."

Never mind that our nurses and librarians spend a great deal of their time teaching, guidance and child study teams spend all their time servicing the needs of students, and obviously library books, computers and audio-visuals are specifically for student use. Princeton voters approved these things and services for their students and in large part pay for them with local property tax dollars. We receive minimal state aid which, though important to our budget, does not begin to pay for any of the categories of "non-instructional" spending.

What Separates a Joke From an Indecent Act?

To the Editor, Town Topics:

A young man was arrested recently in Princeton for allegedly "exposing himself" to two young women. Perhaps his lawyer should argue that his client was following a precedent established by some Princeton University students, those who, at the first snowfall of each year, go naked in public.

Suppose the man had been a University student, and had appeared naked on Nassau Street, declaring that he was starting a new tradition — a one-man "nude Olympics" on a seasonal signal of his own choosing, perhaps the second snow flurry of each year? Would he have been arrested for indecent exposure? If he had been accompanied by any other naked students, would their presence have immunized him from arrest?

The man's lawyer might well ask: "How many other persons exposing themselves would my client have needed in his company to protect him from prosecution? And how many University students going naked in public does it take to turn a punishable offense into something dismissed as a cute joke?"

The $720,000 cut in state aid is translated into complete loss of transportation aid and loss of about half the aid to special needs youngsters. Yet we still bear the mandate to transport children living two miles from their elementary school or two and a half miles from the high school. We also must pay $675 to each private school student who lives these distances from their school.

We also must continue to provide the mandated services to special needs students. Therefore the $720,000 must come out of non-mandated areas in the budget or be made up by a huge rise in local property taxes.

In essence the state is penalizing us for providing our students with the education we feel they are entitled to under the constitutional mandate for a thorough and efficient education. They are beginning the process of leveling all school systems down to some minimal standard which they feel is good enough for all citizens and which they are willing to support with our tax dollars.

Not only that, they are using the power of the state to penalize districts for formerly state approved and voter approved budgets. If this method of public management is allowed to stand, what school or municipal budget is safe?

We of the PTO Council strongly urge Princeton residents to let their legislators — Dick La Rossa, Joseph Yuhas, Shirley Turner, as well as our governor, know that this arbitrary use of power is wrong. It is wrong not only as applies to us but to all 70 districts so penalized. Sample letters to our legislators are available in school offices. Please join us in our effort to right this wrong.

PATTY SOFFRONOFF
President, PTO Council

Administrative Costs Are Just 4% of Total Budget

To the Editor, Town Topics:

When Commissioner Leo Klagholz recently announced a large cut in state aid to the Princeton Regional Schools, about $500,000 of this cut was attributed to a "penalty for excess administrative costs."

This terminology was no doubt calculated to play into the emotions of those like two of your readers who wrote last week that they "have believed for a long time that administrative spending in the district is too high." Somehow administrative expenses are a target that everyone loves to hate.

But the fact of the matter is that Princeton's administrative expenses are about four percent of our total budget and this is about average for districts throughout the state. These were not the costs that Klagholz was targeting for a "penalty." A closer reading of his directive show that the excess costs were really in the areas of school nurses, librarians, library books, guidance counselors and child study teams. In fact when confronted the state has backed off from the original terminology and is now referring to excess non-instructional costs instead.

To an extent even in this area the claim that our costs are out of line may not be valid. Many of our nurses and librarians spend part of their time teaching so that a more accurate accounting would count the associated expenses at least partly as instructional.

Another rather cynical rhetorical device was the portrayal of the cuts as a "penalty." Everyone likes to see the villain get his comeuppance and I am sure the Commissioner loves to be seen dishing out penalties to evildoers. But the fact is that the state never previously had declared even excess non-instructional expense as an offense deserving a penalty. They made up both the crime and the penalty simultaneously and are applying it retroactively.

So in conclusion I am aware that there may be many citizens who have reservations about the way the district handles its money, but I hope they will base their criticisms on the facts of our budget and not on the crowd-pleasing rhetoric that the state is putting forth to justify its actions.

Polished, Energetic Production of 'Grotesque Lovesongs' at Intime

Don Nigro's appropriately titled Grotesque Lovesongs, currently playing at Princeton University's Theatre Intime, blends a disparate mixture of styles and tones in portraying the lives and loves of a most peculiar Indiana family.

Mr. Nigro may have had Sherwood Anderson's "Book of the Grotesque" chapter of Winesburg, Ohio in mind when he created this 1990 play; his five troubled characters, like Anderson's emotionally crippled individuals, distorted in their lonely isolation, strive to communicate with one another. The 1990's world of Grotesque Lovesongs, however, is far from rural Winesburg early in the century.

The second word of the title is as appropriate as the first. The play is full, at least one for each character, of literal and figurative lovesongs — some humorous, some bitter, and all of them twisted or tainted in some way.

News of the THEATRES

Under the skillful direction of junior Jocelyn Bly Fredman, the Intime undergraduate student troupe presents here a polished, well rehearsed, energetic production of a play that either does not know what sort of play it is or perhaps intends to be many different kinds of plays all at once: family drama, romantic comedy, farce, theater of the absurd, psychological drama, satire.

At times it is very funny, at other times just silly, and many of the one-liners, through no fault of the actors, are more awkward than witty. The playwright may be familiar to veteran area theater-goers who caught the world premiere of his The Dark Sonnets of the Lady, a comic drama about Sigmund Freud and his renowned "Dora case," at McCarter Theatre in 1988.

Grotesque Lovesongs focuses on two brothers, the mystery of their parentage and their love for the same woman. Pete, played with humor, strength and conviction by senior Frank DiStefano, and his indecisive, recently-engaged brother John, effectively and convincingly portrayed by Ned Locke, live with their mother and father.

Dan, the father, is a horticulturist, and about half of the downstage area, covered by dozens of potted plants, is his greenhouse, a refuge to which Pete has returned after being robbed and abandoned by his con artist wife.

John has just inherited a fat sum of money from a family friend, who, he discovers during the course of the play, was actually his real father. John is engaged to the lovely but also troubled, twice-divorced Romy, played with flair and intelligence by Holly Biola.

Senior Jen Grant's Louise, the mother, is full of frenetic energy, eccentric conversation and surprising behavior. Cats and sex are two of her favorite topics, and by the time her son John complains, "Don't get weird, Mom, I don't like it when you're weird," it's already too late!

Of all the strange characters, Louise, carrying her guilty secret, is probably the most difficult to grasp. Mr. Nigro has given her some depth and interesting complexity, but at times she appears as little more than a comic caricature, a one-dimensional figure out of the theater of the absurd.

The character of the harmonica-playing father Dan, with his own grotesque lovesong to relate, is also problematic. Played by sophomore John McHale, 59-year-old Dan requires a major stretch in age, but even more difficult is the question of whether this bizarre character belongs in the world of realism or cartoons.

Discovery of Louise's secret past and the intensifying emotions of the love triangle among the two brothers and Romy keep the plot moving briskly, though the audience is perpetually off balance in wondering whether to take these characters and this play seriously or to see it all as a giant parody of family dramas, or perhaps a spoof of itself.

Of all the grotesque love stories told, it is John who gets the last word, as he appears on a platform high above the wall of the set, playing a guitar and singing a song, on his way to make it in Nashville. Whether the song should be taken seriously or satirically is, like the tone of the rest of the play, up for grabs.

Ms. Fredman's set design, enhanced by Jeff Krauss's effective lighting, consists of four different playing areas — bedroom, dining room, garden bench and greenhouse — on three levels, plus the elevated area for John and his guitar. The set is highly functional and permits Ms. Fredman to move the action clearly and efficiently.

Grotesque Lovesongs will play at Murray-Dodge Theater on the Princeton University campus for just three more performances, this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. Call (609) 258-4950 for reservations and further information.

Stay in Italian Villa Up for Bids at Benefit

Princeton resident Clotilde Treves has donated a one-week stay at her 18th-century family home, Casale Sonnino, outside of Rome, to Boheme Opera's "Love Songs" benefit on Sunday. Ms. Treves has made her home a retreat for writers, artists and architects.

The five-bedroom villa with staff will be auctioned at the "Love Songs" benefit which begins at 4 in the Hyatt Regency-Princeton Grand Ballroom. The winner of the Roman Holiday would need to schedule this vacation between November 5 and 25, 1995.

In addition to the silent auction, for $100 per person, Boheme Opera Company will provide hors d'oeuvres, dinner, and a live auction featuring performances of love songs by guest artists and local celebrities. The event will be hosted by Big Mike Davidson.

Mark Morris Dance At McCarter Theatre

The Mark Morris Dance Group returns to McCarter Theatre, where it has played five standing-room-only engagements, on Wednesday, February 15 at 8 p.m.

On the program will be two Princeton premieres, Lucky Charms, set to the music of Ibert, and The Office, with music by Dvorak. The program also includes two McCarter audience favorites, Three Preludes, a solo dance by Mark Morris to music by Gershwin, and Grand Duo, set to music by Lou Harrison. Mr. Morris will participate in a meet-the-artist discussion immediately following the performance.

In the mid-1980s no new American dance choreographer swept through the dance world like Mark Morris did, leaving gasps of amusement, awe and surprise in his wake. Following a long-time residency in Brussels, Mr. Morris returned to the USA two years ago and picked up where he had left off — as perhaps the most important creative figure in dance today. He and his company continue to create a stir wherever they go, and his distinctive interpretation of The Nutcracker, which he entitled The Hard Nut, has become a holiday favorite at the Brooklyn Academy of Music as well as a best-selling video.

Tickets are $27 and $30, and are available by calling the McCarter box office, 683-8000.

Aristophanes' Comedy Staged by London Troupe

The Aquila Theater Company, which has been hailed in Britain for its "vital contemporary and innovative work," will perform Tuesday at 8 in the Princeton University acting studio at 185 Nassau Street.

The troupe will present Aristophanes' Wasps, "a litigious musical comedy," translated and directed by Peter Meineck.

Aquila's Wasps, which has played to full houses in London, is described by the company as "a vivacious, raucous comedy which celebrates the unbreakable spirit of the individual, set against a backdrop of political corruption and legal turmoil; this is a society where democracy is out of control, the people are being bamboozled by dishonest politicians, and the law courts are choked by a population addicted to litigation."

The Aquila company combines a firm knowledge of classical scholarship with the skills of theater professionals. Many of the actors have worked with Britain's premier theater companies. Numerous reviews testify to Aquila's success in revitalizing classical drama for modern audiences.

The performance is free and open to the public, although seating is limited

Princeton Photographers Exhibit in New York City

An exhibition of works by three Princeton photographers has opened at the National Arts Club in New York City. "Viewpoints" includes some 60 works, all using the photograph in some fashion, by Margaret Morgan, Naomi Savage, and Martha Vaughn. The exhibition will remain on view through February 25.

The works range from traditional still life and landscape to innovative abstractions and works based on satellite photography. Among the media are palladium and transfer prints, photoengravings, and experimental mixed-media imagery that begins with an original photograph.

Highlights include Polaroid transfers of Japanese and Antarctic vistas by Ms. Morgan; Ms. Savage's patinated photoengravings based on pictures made in space by astronaut Neil Armstrong, and laser and transfer prints, and Cibachrome prints of the Moroccan and New Zealand landscape by Ms. Vaughn.

Ms. Morgan's work is included in the collections of The New Jersey State Museum and the Addison Gallery of American Art, Andover, Mass. Group exhibitions include Bristol-Myers Squibb Gallery, the Leonard Milberg Gallery, Princeton University; New Jersey State Museum; and the Print Club, Philadelphia.

Evening Open House Friday at Art Museum

The Princeton University Art Museum, located in McCormick Hall in the center of the campus, will be open to the public on Friday evening, from 5:30 to 9. "This is an experiment," said Charles K. Steiner, associate director of the museum. "We hope that evening open hours will encourage students and the greater Princeton community to enjoy the collections and to recognize the museum as the community resource that it is."

The Undergraduate Student Guides, an auxiliary student group associated with the museum, will offer tours of the collection at 7, 7:30, 8 and 8:30. Visitors wishing a tour should meet their guide at the front entrance to the museum at the appointed time.

Mr. Steiner said he was pleased that so many University groups collaborated with the museum on the plans for the evening, including the dean of student life, Mathey College, and the undergraduate guides.

Tiger Hockey Roars Back to Life with 2 Road Victories Over Harvard and Brown, Can It Play as Well at Home?

THE VETERAN AND THE ROOKIE: Senior forward Ethan Early (left) had four goals, including a hat trick against Harvard, and freshman goalie Erasmo Saltarelli turned in a nearly flawless performance against Brown. Early won ECAC Player of the Week honors for his efforts.

It makes no sense; it makes total sense.

Last weekend, an up and down, on again, off again Princeton hockey team, winless since December 23 goes to Cambridge, where it hasn't won since 1981, to play Harvard, and Providence to play Brown, whom it hasn't beaten since 1990, and comes home with four points. Friday night, Old Nassau defeated Harvard, 5-3, and 24 hours later it knocked off Brown, 3-1.

When the expectations are least, like the victory over No.1 Maine, this team is at its best. It couldn't beat either Dartmouth or Vermont, two teams, at or near the bottom of the ECAC standings on its own ice a month ago, but it can defeat the league's number two and three teams on the road.

Certainly, the Baker Rink faithful would like to share in this success. The Orange and

SPORTS

Black is scraping by with .500 hockey at home (3-3-2), while it is 8-4-1 in opponents' rinks. A pair of home contests are on tap for this weekend with St. Lawrence here on Friday at 7:30, followed by Clarkson Saturday at seven. Old Nassau was beaten by both at the start of the season in November.

The Golden Knights are currently atop the ECAC standings, while the Saints, who collected two points last weekend, have moved out of the cellar and into 11th place. Logic would dictate that Old Nassau has a better chance of beating St. Lawrence, but these Tigers defy logic.

Eight games, four home and four away, remain on the schedule, as Princeton attempts to position itself for the highest finish possible for the best possible playoff scenario. Based on what they have shown us so far this season, Cahoon's troops have a 50-50 chance of winning or losing each one of the eight. The standings are so tightly bunched at the moment Princeton could just as easily finish 10th as sixth. Just three points separate the sixth-place Tigers from 10th-place.

Early and Often

To be able to pull off an upset at Harvard's Bright Hockey Center, Princeton needed something extra, and the Tigers got it from hard-working senior Ethan Early. He not only tallied the first hat trick of any Princeton player in two years, but fashioned it with a pair of scintillating shorthanded tallies. Early's heroics helped Princeton recover from a shaky first period, and lead by as much as 5-1 in the third.

The first 20 minutes did little but indicate another run-of-the-mill rout by the Cantabs. Firing 15 shots at goalie James Konte, (Princeton had eight), Harvard scored first, and only Early's first shorthanded score(Brent Flahr and Mervin Kopec, assists) enabled the Orange and Black to go into the dressing room tied at 1-1. Cahoon made certain his players realized how lucky they were to still be in the contest.

His players got the message. The defense tightened up, and the Crimson didn't get 15 shots over the next two periods, finishing with 28. About seven minutes into the stanza, Early worked some more of his magic, stealing the puck from a Harvard defenseman at the blueline. He came in alone on goalie Tripp Tracey and fired the puck between his pads to give Princeton a lead it would never relinquish.

The Tigers made it 3-1 early in the third when Ian Sharp, assisted by Mike Bois and J.P. O'Connor, tallied a power play goal. Harvard got its own power play moments later, but once more Early rose to the occasion, beating Tracey on a brilliant fake to complete his hat trick. It became 5-1 midway through the third when Early roared in the Harvard zone, and passed to Kopeck in front. His quick shot beat Tracey again.

Famous for its heartbreaking comebacks against Princeton, Harvard would not go quietly. When Princeton took a penalty with two minutes left, the Crimson pulled their goalie, and tallied twice in less than a minute with a 6-4 manpower advantage. But time ran out on this comeback, and the Tigers walked off with a 5-3 triumph, their first since a 3-2 win 14 years ago.

And For Good Measure

If Princeton were ever to snap its nine-game losing streak against Brown, the time was ripe Saturday night after the victory over Harvard. But, we all know how poorly the Tigers have played against the Bruins in recent years.

Here's a college basketball oddity... In the Atlantic Coast Conference from 1976 to 1980, the head coach at Duke was Bill Foster — and the head coach at Clemson WAS ALSO Bill Foster... Those 2 Bill Fosters weren't related — but what are the odds that 2 head coaches in the same conference, at the same time, would have the same name.

Although 7 teams in the National Football League play their home games indoors in dome stadiums, NO team with a dome stadium has EVER made it to the Super Bowl... In 1994, 2 dome teams — Detroit and Minnesota — were eliminated early in the playoffs... The other dome teams are Atlanta, Houston, Indianapolis, New Orleans and Seattle.

Here's an amazing fact... Pat Riley, who's coached in the National Basketball Association for 12 years, has — incredibly — finished in first place EVERY SEASON he's been a head coach!... Riley coached the Los Angeles Lakers from 1982 through 1990 — and they finished first each year... Then he became coach of the New York Knicks in 1991 — and they have finished first each year, up to this season.

Possibly with that in mind, and also because Konte had had long night 24 hours earlier, Cahoon turned to his back-up goalie, Erasmo Saltarelli, and gave him his first ECAC start. All the freshman netminder did was stop 35 of 36 Brown shots, and for good measure, assist on the first Princeton goal. With that performance, Saltarelli might have worked himself into a starting rotation with Konte.

The only goal Saltarelli gave up came with the Orange and Black already ahead, 2-0, in the second period. He had almost no chance of stopping Jimmy Andersson's shot off a face-off deep in the Princeton zone. Saltarelli got the Princeton scoring started in the first when his clearing pass found Flahr headed down ice. Flahr sent the puck over to Jonathan Kelley on the other wing, and his shot found nothing but net at 14:31.

tn the second, Early showed he had something leftover from Friday, scoring just 44 seconds into the period, ossisted by Kopeck and Dan Brown. After the Bruins scored at 4:20, Old Nassau held on to that one-goal lead for the next 35 minutes. They did it by playing good, disciplined hockey, ond forcing Brown to take minor penolties, the reverse of what happened when the two met in Boker last November. The Bruins had 11 penalties for 22 minutes, Princeton eight for 16.

As time wound down, the home team was forced to pull goalie Mike Parsons, with 25 seconds left, and moments later Mike Bois' empty-net tally sealed the outcome.

Slapshots: *With on overoll record of 11-7-3, the Tigers need to win just three of their remoining eight games to ossure themselves of o winning record for the seoson no motter what happens In the playoffs. TOWN TOPICS' ADVERTISERS know what Princeton customers want.

1,000 FOR RICK: Princeton's Rick Hielscher became the 20th player here to score 1,000 or more points.

Tigers Manage Ivy Split Away at Brown and Yale

A Rick ttielscher hook shot near the end of the first half should have been the high point of the Princeton-Brown basketball game last Friday, but a three-pointer by Bear guard Eric Blackiston in the last seconds of overtime upstaged it.

Brown escaped defeat in overtime when Blackiston took the ball the length of the court ond launched a three-pointer at the buzzer, obliterating a one-point Princeton lead ond giving Brown a 67-65 win.

The Tigers got back on track the following evening with a 58-42 come-from-behind win over Yale to make their tvy League record 2-3.

Princeton will lonk to improve to 4-3 this weekend, as they host Columbia and Cornell in Jadwin Gym on Friday and Saturday, respectively. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

Hielscher Hits 1,000

The aforementioned ttielscher hook shot, made with 3:08 remaining in the first half, placed him among Princeton basketball's elite club of 1,000-point scorers. The 6'9 senior from Wilmette, Ill. came into the game with 994 career points and finished with 1,014.

Only 19 other players have accomplished that feat, and Hielscher is on pace to join the top 10. tf he continues to average 12 points per game, he will finish in ninth place, behind Brian Taylor. Taylor played for two seasons in the '70s, scoring 1,239 points. He played for many years in the NBA before returning to Princeton and graduating in 1984.

Against Brown, it was Sydney Johnson and Chris Long who played key roles dnwn the stretch. With the game tied in the final seconds of regulation, Jobnson's smothering defense helped keep Blackiston from scoring the go-ahead points for Brown.

Brown took a 62-57 lead in the beginning of the overtime period, but Johnson refused to let them escape. He drove the lane for two points, and drew a foul, turning in a three-point play. Brown then connected on a single foul shot to make their lead 63-60, but Johnson came back with a three-pointer to tie the score.

The senior captain fouled out of the game with 18 seconds remaining, and Blackiston connected on one of the ensuing foul shots. Johnson's fellow guard Chris Long scored his only bucket of the game moments later on a driving lay-up, giving the Tigers a one-point 65-64 lead. Blackiston spoiled the Tiger euphoria though, sending them to Yale with hopes of salvaging the weekend.

Hielscher's 20 points led the team on Friday, followed by 15 from freshman forward James Mastaglio. Johnson ended the contest with 13 points and seven steals. Chris Doyal's game-high 13 rebounds matched his career record.

Defense was the key to the Tigers' 58-42 win at Yale's Payne-Whitney Gymnasium on Saturday. Princeton stifled Yale in the second half, allowing the Elis a meager 17 points in the final 20 minutes. Yale's 42 points is the lowest seore an opponent has posted against Princeton this season.

Not only was the defense tight — it was also clean. Princeton committed only 10 personal fouls in the game, giving Yale only six attempts from the free throw line. Hielscher and freshman Steve Goodrich were not friendly under the boards, blocking six and three shots, respectively.

Yale actually led the contest 25-23 at the half, but whatever PU coach Pete Carril said to his team in the locker room worked well. The Tigers opened the second half with a 19-2 run that left the Elis choking on their dust.

Of the 19 points in that run, Johnson scored 10. He ended the night with a game-high 18 points and tied Doyal for leading-rebounder honors with seven.

Hielscher finished the game with 15 points and five rebounds.

Cornell and Columbia Next

Playing their first Ivy League home stand of the year and their second and third home games in 67 days, Princeton will host Columbia and Cornell this weekend.

This year, the Lions are, in a word, bad. They have lost all six of their Ivy contests so far, and have an overall record of 3-13. They have not won a single game in theor opponent's home arena this season.

The Lions' main threat is in the middle. 6'7 juniors Boris Piskun and Jim Tubridy and 6'5 sophomore Jim Doyle grab a lot of rebounds under the boards, and are the best shot-blocking trio in the Ivy League. Tubridy leads the league with an average 8.5 boards per game. Doyle is the team's leading scorer, with 13 points per game.

the Tigers seemed unable to put the Cardinals away.

The Birds came to the match with a 3-13 overall record (1-10 in conference play).

PHS catered to the Lawrence defense hy playing an outside game rather than taking advantage of their superior size and strength to pound the Birds under the basket.

At halftime, with his team ahead 28-23, Marner said that he had told his players to take more time finding good shots, and to do a better job in hoxing Lawrence out on rebounds.

PHS continued to build on their lead in the third quarter, stretching it to eight points hcfore the start of the fourth.

Lawrence made a run in the final eight minutes, closing to within four points in the final 48 seconds. Inexplicably, the Cardinals allowed PHS to run the clock down to almost nothing before fouling to gct the ball back. Two PHS free throws put the contest out of reach.

Webber led all scorers with 22 points, followed by Wooten with 13. Dawud Towler and Brandon McEwen each scored six.

PHS faced a very important Valley Division matchup with Notre Damc on Tuesday night, too late for this issue. As this issue went to press, PHS led the Valley Division with a 10-2 conference record, but the Irish and McCorristin were close behind with 9-3 marks.

PDS Girls Take Two Prep B Seeding Next

Defeating two more Prep B opponents last week, Kent Place and Wardlaw-Hartridge the Princeton Day girls basketball tcam assured it would seeded near thc top when the coaches meet this Wednesday evening to structure the Prep B Tournament.

The Panthers'13-4 record, includes just one loss to a Prep B opponcnt, a 71-47 defeat by Villa Walsh last month. A rematch between these two in the finals would seem likely.

———

Last week, coach Jill Thomas' girls made two road trips after and came home victorious each time. Last Wednesday, they barely broke into a sweat in Summit, rolling over Kent Place, 52-14. It was a contest for just one quarter with the Panthers leading, 18-8. After that the home team playcd three more periods, hut couldn't match that output with all of them added together. With Lindsey Sternberg leading the way, PDS scored 34 more points. Sternberg had 14, plus 11 rebounds and seven steals.

Darcy Peifer was the only other player in double figures with 13, but Thomas used her starting five sparingly, giving the reserves plenty of playing time.

Friday in was back on the bus to Edison to face Wardlaw, and the result wasn't much different. Dana DcCore led the way with 14 points, seven steals and five assists as PDS routed the Rams, 48-20. The home team never scored more than seven points in any quarter. Sternberg added 12 points, 13 rebounds and seven steals, while Peifer had 11 points and seven rebounds.

Saturday's contest with Pennington was not played because of the snow. This week the Panthers will face Peddie away on Friday and Stuart Country Day on Monday.

Raider Girls' Basketball Just Keeps On Struggling

Three losses this week left the record of the Hun School girls' basketball team at a disappointing 2-14 with only a handful of games remaining in the season.

The Raiders lost to PDS on Monday evening, 46-26; last Thursday, they suffered a 42-25 beating at the hands of Solebury — in spite of a personal season-high 15 points from Leah Bills.

Oak Knoll beat up on the Raiders 55-18 a week ago Tuesday. Michelle Giller netted eight points for PDS, followed by Bills with six.

This week, the Raiders will face Pingry at home on Wednesday at 4 p.m., and Kent Place away on Friday at 4 p.m.

STRANDED: Hun's Dana Hughes looks for a teammate to pass to. She was defended by Princeton Day School's Darcy Peifer during the two schools' meeting on Monday afternoon.

Carrasco Closing on 1,000 As PHS Girls Face Mikes

Coach Ron Antoniotti's PHS girls' basketball team saw their six-game winning streak snapped in an overtime match with the Ewing Blue Devils a week ago Tuesday. Three days later, they took out their frustrations on Lawrence, trouncing the Cardinals 56-38 to improve their record to 12-5.

Senior Laanna Carrasco scored a total of 44 points in the two games, bringing her career total to 967 points, 33 shy of the 1,000 mark.

PHS was scheduled to play Notre Dame on Tuesday, too late for this issue. Barring a season-high 33 point performance against the Irish, Carrasco should reach the 1,000 point milestone at home, against McCorristin on Friday evening (7 p.m. start.)

TOWN TOPICS records suggest that there has been only one other 1,000 point scorer in the history of PHS girls' basketball: Denise Craig, who played for the team in the early 1970s.

Against Ewing, even 26 points from Carrasco were not enough to push the Tigers over the top. PHS took a five point lead in the first quarter, but were unable to expand on it. Both teams scored 13 points in the second quarter and 10 in the third, keeping the PHS lead at five.

In the fourth quarter, a Ewing surge pulled the Blue Devils into a tie with PHS, forcing an overtime period.

Ewing's Meleena Edwards scored all six of her squad's OT points, including the bucket with 10 seconds left that gave them the lead and the game.

scored 10 points and Grace Weiner contributed nine.

The Lawrence Cardinals never had a chance on Friday, as PHS roared out to a 22-10 first quarter lead and never looked back.

Weiner was good for 10 first quarter points, helping to get PHS ahead early. She ended the game with 14 points, four behind the game's high scorer, Carrasco, who had 18. Krieger was also in double figures against the Birds, scoring 12 points.

PDS Boys Basketball Captures 2 Contests

The Princeton Day boys basketball team won both games it played last week, against Prep B opponents Pennington and Newark Academy and improved its record to 13-8. With just one loss in Prep B competition, the Panthers may be awarded the second seed (Wardlaw should be No. 1) in the Prep B Tournament later this month. The seeding committee was scheduled to meet this past Tuesday night.

Another year and another tight game against Pennington; this time the Panthers needed overtime to pull out a 65-62 triumph. Last year they claimed a 48-46 decision, and the Blue and White now has three consecutive wins over its arch-rival.

This time Princeton Day, which had jumped out to a 22-10 first quarter lead over Pennington, needed a three-point basket from Peter Denby to tie the score at 58 apiece. Down by nine at the end of three, the home team had outscored PDS, 20-8, until Denby's clutch basket. Jaron Randall led the way with 15 points, Zach David, Eric Boyd and Denby had 10 apiece.

On Friday against Newark, the offense took over scoring 88 points in an 88-60 triumph. A 25-11 lead at the end of the first quarter got the Panthers off and running and they never looked back. Denby led all scorers with 19 points, followed by Matt LaBosco with 15, Boyd with 14 and Brian Smith with 10.

Four games are on tap for this week: Montclair-Kimberley away on Wednesday, Lawrenceville at home Thursday, Saddle River away on Saturday and Blair away on Monday. The final regular season game will be next Wednesday at home against Hill.

PASSING LANE: PDS freshman Karl Zarzecki took over point guard duties for much of the Panthers' 46-24 win over the Hun School on Monday afternoon. Here, she sends a pass by a pair of Hun defenders.

PDS Hockey Splits Pair Record is Now 6-8

The Princeton Day boys hockey team split a pair of games last week, beating Pingry, 5-4, and losing to Germantown Academy, 5-0. The Panthers' record is now 6-8.

Germantown came into this contest with a 20-4 mark, so the Panthers knew they would be in for a struggle. Coach Matt Lustig's team battled the visitors on even terms for two periods, with neither team able to score. But Germantown erupted for five goals in the third, while PDS never did solve GA's defense. Mark Gray had 24 saves in goal for PDS.

A four-goal explosion in the second period enabled PDS to win for only the second time in 1995. Entering this game, the Panthers had lost four of five. The visitors had taken a 2-1 lead in the first, with John Leahy getting the only goal for the Blue and White.

But in the second Knipe tallied once, Kevin Meehan twice and Leahy added his second of the game to put PDS ahead 5-3. The offense was through for the day at that point, but the defense held on in the third allowing Big Blue just one more tally. Mark Gray had 31 saves for PDS.

This past Tuesday, PDS was scheduled for a rematch with Morristown-Beard for the Prep B title. The Blue and White won the first meeting between the two, 4-1. On Wednesday, Princeton Day will face Bishop Eustace Prep, and Saturday will play only its second road contest of the season against Upland Hockey Club. Upland won here 7-3 last month.

Two More Hun Victories Take Hoops Mark to 17-t

If they try hard, really hard, the members of the Raider boys' basketball team might be able to remember what it's like to lose a basketball game.

Coach Kevin Long's charges have notched wins in their last tt contests, and were deprived of a shot at their twelfth this week when their match against Notre Dame was cancelled due to snow.

With games against The Hill School (Wednesday) and Hightstown (Saturday), Hun will be looking to stretch their streak to 13 games before the beginning of the Atlantic Cape Classic on Sunday.

As is his custom, Greg Burston led the Raiders in their 59-51 win over Prep rival Lawrenceville Inst

TOWN TOPICS
High School Athlete of the Week

TOWN TOPICS nominates Princeton High School junior Ryan Calder for Athlete of the Week. A captain of the PHS wrestling team, Calder's strength in the 136 pound weight class is one of the major reasons why the young and inexperienced Tiger wrestling team is currently battling for top honors in the Valley Division.

Ryan Calder

The key to Calder's success is consistency, says PHS coach Matt Wilkinson. "Ryan is a coach's dream, because he is a constant - he always goes out and gives his very best."

Calder's best has been good enough for a 12-4 record so far this year, and seven wins in his last eight matches. He has lost only one CVC match this season, a 9-6 decision to Trenton's Clarence Boone, one of the top wrestlers in the area.

Calder's weight class is one of those that were severely affected by a shuffling of the classification system during the off-season. His success is all the more remarkable because many talented wrestlers have been compressed into a single weight class.

As a sophomore, Calder wrestled his way to third place in the District Tournament and an invitation to the Regionals at 119 pounds.

Growth and work in the weight room have taken him up several classes, and Wilkinson expects to see him perform well in the post-season this year.

Calder's success is not restricted to the mats. Wilkinson claims that he would put his squad's SAT scores up against any other wrestling program in the state. Even in that environment, Calder is a standout: he earns A's in the classroom and takes mathematics classes at Princeton University. "We're tickled to death that we're going to have him for another year," says Wilkinson.

PHS Tops Hamilton 30-28 In Major Wrestling Upset

In a match that was as unpredictable as it was exciting, the PHS wrestling team beat perennial King-of-the-Hill Hamilton 30-28 last Wednesday evening on the Tigers' own mats.

It is Princeton's first win over the Hornets in at least 10 years, according to PHS coach Matt Wilkinson, whose charges were not expected to perform nearly as well as they have so far this season.

The Tigers boast a 8-4 overall record and a 6-4 CVC mark, which may only be good enough for second place, in spite of their face-to-face defeat of the first place Hornets.

Freshman Arjun Reddy got things underway for PHS in the 102 pound bout, pinning his man at the 4:31 mark for a 6-0 PHS lead. Jimmy Curtis lost a hard-fought 108 pound match by a 9-7 score.

Hamilton built up a 13-6 lead, winning the next two bouts, and the Hornets looked ready to keep rolling, as Princeton's Chris Goettinger fell behind 8-4 in the final period of the 128 pound match.

With things looking grim, Goettinger rallied in the final seconds of the match, winning four quick points against his tiring opponent to force an overtime period.

The PHS senior dominated the OT, coming away from the bout with a 13-8 victory. The win seemed to spark his teammates, who went on to win the next three bouts.

Jaime Weinberg won a 5-1 decision at 136 pounds, Ryan Calder took 4:31 to pin his man in the 144 pound bout, and Alex Brown won 13-8 at 153 pounds.

Hamilton pulled ahead 22-21 with consecutive wins at 162 pounds and 174 pounds, but a 10-6 decision by Ashraf Rashad at 187 pounds put PHS ahead by two points.

Knowing that a pin at 217 pounds would ice the win for his squad, Wilkinson pulled Basil Zaki from his place at the heavyweight slot, and wrestled him at 217. The move paid off in a mere 31 seconds. Zaki pinned his man, putting the match out of the Hornets' reach.

Wrestling above his usual weight class, Ken Graziano was pinned in the heavyweight bout, but it mattered little, as PHS had already clinched the win.

With Saturday's match against Ewing postponed due to snow, PHS had only one other taste of competition this week. They traveled to South Hunterdon and won in what coach Wilkinson called "a very ugly" match.

South Hunterdon fielded only seven wrestlers, but the Eagles took four of those bouts. PHS won by dint of six forfeit victories.

A Wednesday match against Scotch Plains has been cancelled, so PHS will not wrestle again until Saturday, when they will host two teams. They will battle Freehold at 10 a.m. before doing battle with CVC foe Hightstown at 2 p.m.

Raiders Lose in Tourney But Rebound Against ND

The Raiders fell 4-3 in overtime to Morristown-Beard in the first round of the Prep "B" state tournament last Wednesday, but gathered themselves in time for a 6-3 come-from-behind beating of CVC power Notre Dame on Friday.

Against Mo-Beard, Hun fell behind 1-0 in the first period, but goals by Bill Renshaw and Peter Baker gave the Raiders a short-lived lead in the second. Mo-Beard tied the score before the buzzer, sending the teams into the third period locked at 2-2.

Mo-Beard scored first in the third period, but Nick Burke sent the game into overtime with the tying goal.

The Crimson needed less than four minutes to end the battle in overtime. A low wrist shot found the Hun net at 3:47, making the final 4-3 in favor of the Crimson.

The Raiders were battered 7-2 by the Hightstown Rams last Tuesday. Hun's two goals both came in the third period, off the sticks of Renshaw and Scott Gifis.

A spectacular third period lifted the Raiders over the Irish of Notre Dame on Friday. Hun fell behind 1-0 in the first period, but Gifis tied the score at 8:38 in the second period.

Notre Dame scored twice more to go up 3-1, but Gifis made it 3-2 with his second goal at 13:50.

In the third period, Ross Barbieri exploded for a single-period hat trick. A single goal by Renshaw added to Hun's total, as the Raiders cruised to a 6-4 win.

Hun faced Hamilton on Tuesday, too late for this issue. They will travel to Bridgewater-Raritan, whom they beat 10-1 in December, for a Friday evening game.

Stuart Basketball Wins Two of Three Games

The Stuart basketball team won two games last week, downing St. Mary's Hall, 46-36, and Mercer Christian 61-11. The Tartans also lost to Blair Academy, 52-30. The win-loss record for coach Bill Holup's team is now 8-8.

Against St. Mary's Hall, Stuart fell behind, 2-0, in the first minutes. The Tartans quickly tied the score, moved ahead and never lost the lead again. Senior Schevilla Courtney scored a game-high 16 points, followed by Patrice O'Leary with eight. Jenita Davis, Eliza Hoover and Elisa Schement-Heck chipped in six apiece. Maria Korsgaard tallied four. Angela Piscitelli also played in the win.

Blair Academy, the defending Prep B champion, was a tough competitor. "I was really pleased to see how aggressively we played against them," said Holup. "We hung even for three quarters, but just couldn't stay with them for four." Even though closely contained by Blair, Courtney led Stuart with nine points. Hoover contributed seven, followed by Davis and O'Leary with six each.

The outcome of the game against Mercer Christian was never in question. "We used the game to work on our fast break," said Holup. Courtney and Hoover both reached double digits, scoring 24 and 12 points, respectively. Courtney had a strong all-around game, contributing nine rebounds and six steals. Hoover added six rebounds. Daria Azoulas scored seven points, as Sasha Corchado chipped in six. Sara Burchell provided four points, followed by Micaela Cook, Korsgaard, Piscitelli and Schement-Heck, with two apiece. O'Leary did not score, but supplied five rebounds and four steals.

This week, the Tartans will travel to Gill St. Bernard's on Thursday, and Pennington School Friday.

Stuart Skaters Beat Princeton High, 7-5

Senior Caiti Higgins returned to the lineup after recovering from a shoulder injury to lead the Stuart ice hockey team to a 7-5 victory over Princeton High School. The win-loss record for coach Jim Higgins' team is now 5-6.

Higgins had not played since a hard check into the boards during a game on January 20 at Princeton Day School — and she was raring to go, scoring a hat trick and more. She notched one goal in the first period, two in the second, and her fourth goal of the game in the third period. Her first goal was unassisted. The three additional tallies were assisted by Stacy Sparella, Kristy Moore and Jaimie Healey.

Goalie Sara Applegate, injured in a January 28 contest against Washington (DC) Redcoats, remained on the bench. Gia Fruscione, Stuart's all-star field hockey netminder, was her replacement. "It's a very different game," said Fruscione. "Ice hockey goalies don't stand with their pads together. I had to remember to keep my feet apart for balance, and use my stick to cover the five-hole. It was a real challenge." Fruscione made 19 saves in her rookie appearance as keeper.

Other scores for Stuart came from Jonelle Lupero, assisted by Alicia Fruscione; Sparella, assisted by Healey; and Alicia Fruscione, assisted by Moore.

"It was a great team effort," said coach Higgins. "I'd like to give some credit to Lisa Bentivogli, Alexis Michnel, Emma Trask and Justyna Piasecka."

The game against the Chevy Chase (MD) club originally scheduled for last Saturday was canceled due to inclement weather. Tartans will host Princeton Day School this Wednesday, at the Lawrenceville School rink, and will travel to the University of Pennsylvania for a 4 p.m. contest on Friday.

MANGLED WRECK: Members of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad used the "Jaws of Life" to remove injured Anna Moreno from the remains of her Mazda MPV last Tuesday, after she collided with a school bus on Rosedale Road. Hidden under a blanket, the victim was calmed by another rescue worker.

still in the emergency room.

The bus had been carrying Mrs. Susan Frenchu's second grade class on a field trip to the Old Barracks in Trenton when the accident occurred. Also on board the bus was an adult volunteer, Niranjana Bhatt.

Other than police officers, Dr. John Kazmark, principal of the Johnson Park School, was one of the first people to arrive on the scene.

According to Dr. Kazmark, he was contacted by the School District's director of transportation after the bus driver, fifty-three-year-old Harold Paul of Hightstown, used his radio to contact his base at Princeton Regional School District's Valley Road building.

Dr. Kazmark and Facilities Director Bill Karch arrived at the scene together, within minutes of the accident. "We were there before the emergency vehicles arrived," said Dr. Kazmark.

"When I got there, our teacher, Susan Frenchu, was already in the process of playing word games with the kids to keep them calm. She had immediately checked the kids out to make sure that they were all right. They were all in good spirits.

"All I can do is praise Mrs. Frenchu for keeping the children safe and making them feel comfortable after what had been a very traumatic experience."

The Johnson Park School nurse, Rose Marie Fassbender, arrived on the scene shortly afterward, and also checked the children for injuries.

Followed Safety Lessons

"We were all fine," said Mrs. Frenchu on Tuesday afternoon. It really wasn't that big a deal. The kids were all wonderful — at the impact there wasn't a single scream.

"I never saw the car coming, but the bus driver did, and pulled to the side of the road."

When Dr. Kazmark boarded the bus, she said, he saw that all of the students had been wearing their safety belts. "The first thing he said to the kids was 'You're all safe because you followed the safety rules you've learned.'"

"They're tired of hearing me say this," said Mrs. Frenchu of her students, "but I'm really proud of them."

Marcia Bossart, Superintendent of the Princeton Regional School District, also arrived on the scene shortly after the accident.

"I was notified by my secretary. I had been in a meeting with Assistant Superintendent Lee Pisauro, and he and I drove out there; at that time, all we knew was that there had been an accident."

Mrs. Frenchu and Dr. Kazmark had already ascertained the children's safety when she arrived. "The students were very well-mannered and calm. They were a credit to their teacher and to themselves — they were beautifully behaved," said Dr. Bossart.

A second school bus arrived on the scene within 20 minutes of the accident. "We evacuated the students from the back of the bus," said Dr. Bossart, "and got them on the other one."

The wrecked bus was a 1994 International. "It was our newest bus, and every kid had a seat belt," said Dr. Bossart.

Some of the district's older buses do not have seat belts, she reported, and neither do some of the buses used by companies that contract with the school. However, any new buses that come into use in the district are required to have them.

In the meantime, said Dr. Bossart, "When we can use the ones with seat belts, of course, we do."

Princeton Day School senior Missy Woodruff is one of ten students from New Jersey, Connecticut and New York schools selected to organize a Teen Leadership Conference sponsored by Channel 13/WNET TV. This year's conference, on violence and gender issues, will be attended by students from more than 300 schools in the tri-state area.

Ms. Woodruff is the daughter of Tina and Louis Woodruff of Belle Mead. She and the other nine students are planning activities and speakers for the March 16 conference, and will also appear as part of a panel discussion on violence that Channel 13 is videotaping in February to be aired later this year.

Ms. Woodruff says some of her ideas for the conference come from her experience as a volunteer this year for HiTops, a Princeton-based organization promoting teen health and sexuality awareness, and from a class on "Men, Women and Literature," taught by Kate Winton Burns, which she took last year at Princeton Day School.

Center for Jewish Life Names New Director

The appointment of Rabbi James S. Diamond as the director of Princeton University's Center for Jewish Life has been announced by the center's acting director, Prof. Thomas H. Stix.

"Rabbi Diamond brings a wealth of experience in Jewish campus affairs and a profound knowledge of Judaism and its modern literature. We are very fortunate indeed," Prof. Stix said. "He is a marvelously warm person — someone you immediately like and respect and feel comfortable with."

The center for Jewish Life, located on the University campus, functions under the joint partnership of Princeton University and the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation. It provides a central structure for religious, social, cultural, and informal educational activities for Jewish students, faculty and staff.

Rabbi Diamond, whose tenure will begin on July 1, brings more than 20 years of experience in Hillel to his new position. He comes to Princeton from St. Louis, where he has served as the executive director of Hillel since 1972.

With an academic background that includes a bachelor's degree in English literature from Roosevelt University in Chicago, rabbinic ordination from the Jewish Theological Seminary, and a doctorate in comparative literature from Indiana University, Rabbi Diamond is the author of two books and numerous articles and essays. He edited A Handbook for Hillel and Jewish Campus Professionals, published in 1983.

As an adjunct professor at Washington University, Rabbi Diamond taught a number of courses there centered on his extensive knowledge of modern Hebrew literature. He has also served as preceptor for independent study students in Washington's Jewish and Near Eastern Studies Program. In addition, he has held several major fellowships and was awarded an honorary doctoral degree by the Jewish Theological Seminary in 1988.

The Center for Jewish Life opened its doors in February, 1993. It serves as a home base for a variety of Jewish student groups, including Social Action/Chesed, Jewish Theater Project, Jewish Women's Connection, Yavneh, and Princeton Jewish Student Appear, and an a coppella singing group. The center incorporates a sanctuary, auditorium, classroom, kosher kitchen and dining facilities, a Beit Midrash, a Judaica library, a computer cluster, and recreational areas.

Moscow Soup Kitchen Aided by Princeton Group

A call for help was faxed to CREED (the Christian Renewal Effort for Emerging Democracies) in Princeton from the president of the Christian Democratic Union in Moscow, Alexander Ogorodnikov. The fax read, "We are in a grave crisis. The city officials of Moscow are trying to close our soup kitchen

Rabbi James S. Diamond

... We need your help to fight against the culture of the lie. The only way to gain a foothold for true Christian Democracy is to use our voice and fight. We need your voice."

Creed gave voice to this plea by interceding with President Boris Yeltsin and the mayor of Moscow, and raised a sum of money to pay the heavy taxes imposed upon this charitable institution. Creed's voice seemed to be too soft and too late, however, for on November 16, 1994, the soup kitchen was ordered to cease feeding a daily number of 500-plus and to close the building.

At noon on Martin Luther King Day, January 16, Ernest Gordon, president of Creed, received a phone call from Moscow. A lady journalist exclaimed, "I have good news for you!" She went on to say that the soup kitchen had reopened that day. "Ogorodnikov told me," she said, "that this was because of Creed." The Rev. Mr. Gordon replied that Creed had helped to gain Ogorodnikov's release from prison camp, that he had invited him to speak at Creed's conference in 1988 shortly after he had been released from prison, and that since then Creed has encouraged and supported this Christian Democratic Union and its soup kitchen.

OBITUARIES

Alison Frantz

Alison Frantz, 91, scholar and archaeological photographer of Greek sites and antiquities, died February 1 at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in New Brunswick from injuries sustained in an accident January 27 at Princeton Shopping Center.

Born in Duluth, Minn., Miss Frantz lived in Princeton most of her life. Her father, a newspaper publisher in Duluth, died when she was three years old. She was the youngest of five children, and her mother educated her at home until she was 15, a year before she was accepted at Smith College.

After graduating with a B.A. in classics in 1924, she spent a year as a Fellow at the American Academy in Rome, and while there paid her first visit to Greece. Returning to Princeton, she joined the staff of the Index of Christion Art, under the direction of Prof. Charles Rufus Morey, then chairman of the the Department of Art and Archaeology. The experience gave her an abiding interest in the post-classical world of early Christendom and Byzantium.

In 1929 she was appointed as a Fellow at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens, Greece. The American School was embarking on the excavation of the Agora, or civic center of the ancient city, an enterprise that still continues. She became a member of the staff in 1934 and was still listed in the 1994-95 directory of the school as a research fellow.

Miss Frantz received her Ph.D. from Columbia University in 1937. In 1939 she accepted the title of Photographer of the Agora Excavations, a position she held for 25 years. This entailed doing everything in the way of photography required by a major modern excavation, from recording the progress of the field work, to producing the record photos of the innumerable finds and meeting the needs of publication.

Occasionally she assisted colleagues outside the Agora. An example occurred in the summer of 1939 as war was brewing in Europe. One day, a professor turned up bringing with him more than 600 clay tablets inscribed in the so-called Linear B script which he had found in one room of the Palace of Nestor which he was excavating in the western Pelopnessos.

Before these rare and precious objects were deposited in the vaults of the Bank of Greece for the duration of the war, the professor insisted they be photographed. In two hectic days Miss Frantz produced excellent photos of the whole lot. Prints were made available to scholars, and it was largely this that lead to the decipherment of the Linear B Script by the English scholar Michael Ventris and to the realization that these were the earliest known records written in the Greek language.

But it was Greek sculpture that became the chief specialty of Miss Frantz's photographic career. So great was her respect for the sculpture that she insisted on complete honesty in recording it, whether for the scholar or art lover. She resorted to artificial light only in exceptional circumstances and eschewed the use of color.

As the Agora excavations proceeded, opening up a 30-acre plot in the heart of the ancient city with a continuous stratification of 5,000 years, Miss Frantz was attracted by the amount of new evidence for the Late Antique, the Byzantine and Turkish periods. Assigned responsibility for the oversight of the study and eventual publication of the relevant material, she produced a succession of articles on the domestic and ecclesiastical architecture and the ceramics of the Byzantine and Turkish periods.

Her final views on one part of this long stretch of history were presented in 1988 in The Athenian Agoro, vol XXIV, Late Antiquity: A.D. 267-700.

Less well known is the role Miss Frantz played in a diplomatic capacity. During World War II, she served with the Office of Strategic Services with the special responsibility of keeping Washington informed of developments in Greece. During the enemy occupation of her beloved second homeland, she actively supported the Organization of Greek War Relief, notably by her contribution to a booklet, This is Greece (1941), coauthored by her friend and colleague Lucy Talcott.

In the first free elections held in Greece after the liberation, Miss Frantz served as a member of the Allied Mission for the Observation of Greek Elections. She also held a three-year term as cultural attache to the U.S. Embassy in Athens. Dismayed by how the Athens symphony orchestra had suffered during the occupation, she was instrumental in reviving it.

She was also active in setting up the Fulbright Program for the exchange of scholars between Greece and the U.S.

In 1967 Miss Frantz was honored by Smith College with an award for her achievements in humanistic studies. She was elected to the American Philosophical Society in 1973 and in 1984 received the Society's medal for the best paper read before the Society that year.

Miss Frantz was preceded in death by her two brothers, Dr. Angus M. Frantz, a New York neurologist, and Samuel G. Frantz, an engineer and inventor, of Princeton; and by her two sisters, Barbara F. Russell of Gladwyne, Pa., and Janet F. Cottier of Princeton. Surviving are four nieces, Katherine F. Mayo of Holland, Pa., Margaret F. Wellington of Princeton, Sarah F. Latimer of Woodbridge, Suffolk, Great Britain, and Janet R. Gundry of Cornelius Ore.; four nephews, Angus Russell of Norwich, Vt. Angus Frantz of Princeton, Dr. Angus Frantz and J.H. This article discusses problems of domestic violence. It explains what legal recourse and protective services are available to victoms of this kind of abuse.

Womanspace, Inc., ofrece servicios a mujeres en crisis. Para más información sobre nuestros servicios, sobre cómo ser un voluntario, cómo poder ayudar con una donaciòn o para recibir nuestros servicios puede llamar al (609) 394-0136 o al 394-9000. Hay personas bilingues para contestar su llamada.

P. ¿Qué es la violencia doméstica?
R. Una persona víctima de violencia domèstica es alguien que es abusado física, verbal o sexualmente por personas que viven en su casa o por su novio o novia. El abuso físico es cualquier forma de fuerza física incluyendo el golpear, empujar, lanzar cosas, amenazarle con un arma, jalar el pelo, y cualquier otra manera de usar la fuerza en otra persona. El abuso emocional o verbal es el humillar, criticar cruelmente, hacerle sentir inferior e insultarle. El abuso sexual se refiere a cuando se le obliga a actos sexuales en contra de su voluntad, se le atacan las partes sexuales de su cuerpo y se le trata como un objeto sexual.

P. ¿Cómo son la mayoria de los casos de violencia domestica?
R. La mayoría de los casos son situaciones en las cuales el esposo o novio abusa de la mujer al cometer actos de violencia doméstica contra ella. Las mujeres son las víctimas de violencia doméstica en el 95.3% al 99% de los casos.

P. Mucha gente piensa que la mujer provoca que se le golpee. ¿Es esto cierto?
R. NO! Ningun ser humano tiene el derecho de golpear, amenazar o controlar a otro, ni siquiera su esposo o el padre de sus hijos. No hay ninguna razòn por la cual alguien tiene el derecho a pegarle a otra persona, no importa lo que la persona haya hecho. Además, la violencia doméstica es un crimen en el estado de Nueva Jersey. El agresor, quien comete el acto de violencia, está desobedeciendo las leyes del estado.

P. ¿Què es una orden de protecciòn?
R. La orden de protección es una acción civil, un documento legal que prohibe que el agresor se le acerque a usted y prohibe que el agresor regrese al lugar dondo ocurrió la violencia. En muchos casos, este lugar es el hogar. La víctima de violencia doméstica tiene derecho a quedarse en el hogar aun cuando la casa o apartamento esté a nombre del agresor. Además tiene el derecho a la custodia de sus hijos y a pensión alimenticia.

P. ¿Cree usted que hay mitos (ideas falsas) sobre la violencia doméstica en nuestra comunidad?
R. SÌ! Hay muchos mitos o ideas falsas que se han creado en la comunidad. Por ejemplo, el mito de que a las mujeres maltratadas les gusta que las maltraten o que ellas son masoquistas. Sin embargo, la realidad es que muchas mujeres permanecen en hogares violentos porque sus circunstancias económicas no les permiten otra alternativa.

P. ¿La violencia doméstica existe mayormente en la gente pobre?
R. NO! La violencia doméstica ocurre en familias ricas, pobres y de clase media. Además, los hombres violentos y las mujeres víctimas de maltrato pueden ser personas famosas, profesionales (incluyendo oficiales de la policía, jueces, doctores...) o personas desempleadas.

P. ¿Cómo le afecta a los hijos la violencia en el bogar?
R. La violencia doméstica le afecta muchìsimo a los niños. Danos emocionales (autoestima, sentido de culpabilidad, depresión), daños físicos, abuso de alcohol y drogas para escapar su sufrimiento, delincuencia o conducta violenta, muerte por homicidio o suicidio y la probabilidad de que repitan lo que aprendieron en su casa. Esto quiere decir que probablemente, cuando los hijos crezcan, el niño abusará de su compañera y la niña tendrá una relación en la cual ella es abusada. Los niños aprenden lo que ven, si vieron violencia y abuso en el hogar probablemente eso repetireán en su bogar cuando sean adultos. La violencia domèstica es un problema de vida o muerte.

P. ¿Cuáles son los servicios que le ofrece Womanspace a la comunidad latinoamericana?
R. Womanspace ofrece servicios para víctimas de violencia doméstica y su familia. Estos servicios son: a) consejeria, b) grupos de apoyo, c) talleres de información a la comunidad, d) servicios de vivienda y e) consejeria espiritual o religiosa. Además, la clínica legal ofrece consultas con abogados sobre divorcio, custodia de niños, ayuda financiera y otros aspectos legales. El refugio residencial le ayuda con un lugar seguro y confidencial para la mujer y sus hijos; aquí le orientan y ayudan a buscar vivienda permanente y otros recursos necesarios.

Womanspace le ofrece servicios a mujeres en crisis. Si usted está siendo abusada o conoce alguien que está siendo abusada, puede llamar a Womanspace. Además, puede sugenr que la persona asista a consejería. Esta persona no tiene que tomar ninguna decisión en cuanto a su situación, ni tiene que saber que quiere hacer para participar en consejería. Simplemente, su consejera le ofrecerá apoyo e información, una oportunidad para desahogarse y una hora dedicada a usted y sus necesidades. La consejería es totalmente CONFIDENCIAL.

Walk more! Good advice and encouraged by the midtown location of this delightful Colonial on Princeton's Hawthorne Avenue. A blue door and shutters are a pleasant contrast with the pristine white of the house. The entry opens to a gracious front-to-back living room with fireplace and a door to a screened porch. The dining room is enhanced by two attractive corner cupboards. The sparkling white kitchen is modern. On second floor, a hall with window seat, three bedrooms and an updated bath. Carpeted steps lead to the lower level which is completely above ground. Sliding doors bring the southern sun into the family room to which a new full bath has been added. In mint condition with a pleasant decor, this is a charming home you will find hard to resist.

Equal representation: it's the buyer's right.

Conventional real estate agents are bound by law to represent the seller, not the buyer. Buyer's Choice changes all that.

If you're in the market for a new home or office, your first call should be to us. We know Princeton, and once we know your requirements, we'll analyze all available options and show you only those properties that fit your needs. Then we'll negotiate on your behalf to ensure the most favorable terms possible. Call us... it's your right.

HENDERSON'S ANNUAL REAL ESTATE REPORT FOR THE PRINCETON MARKET*

Here is the HENDERSON MARKET REPORT for 1994 — a major source of information for everyone interested in Residential Real Estate Sales in our market area. These numbers represent the total of all the data we have accumulated, including County Records, certain MLS information and our own knowledge of new construction and private sales. We hope it will be useful to you in planning for future sales of your property. These are not simply Henderson transactions, rather they are sales by every means we know including most area brokers in the residential market. We have compiled the data by price range and community! You can literally extrapolate your own opportunities and absorption rates to help in development pricing and marketing strategies!

Our thanks to Jones Toland for tracking the data, organizing it and creating the graphics.

BUT WHAT ABOUT 1995?

A boomer? Probably not! But we don't think it will be a disaster either. Most likely 1995 will be another year of middling sales for many brokers. But not so at HENDERSON! We anticipate another record-breaking year. By the way we have lots more interesting data to share with you if you are thinking about selling — or buying. Call any one of our offices, please.
